—M. NIKI KANAVAS, TORONTO LAWYER AND LAW INSTRUCTOR

Canadian Law and Business Studies

NORMAN M. FERA AND RICHARD O. GASPARINI

Canadian Law and Business Studies presents a succinct overview of law and business for students at an introductory level. Organized into 20 chapters—which include topics such as rights and freedoms, privacy, confidentiality, land claims, and the environment—this book is designed to be a compact guide of the most essential legal rules in point form. It engages readers by delving into contemporary topics such as online pirating, cell phone contracts, vaccine mandates, careless driving, social media, sniffer dogs, international intrigue, Kyoto (1997), and Glasgow (2021).

The book covers a wide range of discussion areas including Indigenous rights, partnerships, companies, oppression, securities, insolvency, negligence, contracts, property, mortgages, copyright, employment, consumerism, discrimination, harassment, and world trade. It is well suited for instructors and students interested in law and social justice, general business, or business administration, and for those studying to qualify as law clerks or paralegals. Each chapter is concluded with an accessible essay that highlights and consolidates key takeaways for the reader.

Norman M. Fera is a lawyer, author, and legal editor. After graduating from teachers' college, Laurentian University, and Carleton University, he pursued a master's degree in politics and law. Mr. Fera later studied at the University of Ottawa, where he received his Juris Doctorate. He has been a lawyer for more than 30 years, spending many of them in private practice in Canada's national law firms. Richard O. Gasparini is a lawyer, teacher, and sociologist. He received his undergraduate degree from Carleton University followed by a Juris Doctorate from the University of Ottawa, an LLM from Osgoode Hall Law School, an MBA from Bradford University (UK), and his PhD from Manchester Metropolitan University (UK). Dr. Gasparini has been a lawyer for more than 30 years and has practised in both private and corporate settings.

FEATURES

- a unique point-form format makes this book easier to use than checking Wikipedia
- streamlined, without the bulk and complicated jargon of traditional law textbooks
- created by authors who have over 60 years of practical field experience and are practised post-secondary instructors
- written from a Canadian perspective and highly engaging, with classroom-favourite examples

Understanding Project Management

A Practical Guide, Second Edition

DAVE C. BARRETT

In the second edition of Understanding Project Management, skilled expert Dave C. Barrett offers a well-updated, practical real-world guide for current and aspiring project managers. Using concise and approachable language, the second edition features new concept illustrations, a greater consistency with the Project Management Body of Knowledge terminology, and additional case studies in the updated instructor resources. Taking the reader through an ongoing case study from initiation to completion, the text reinforces the importance of managing key aspects of a project, including its scope, quality, schedule, and budget, and explores the less tangible challenges that can often derail a project or lead to its success.

This newly updated edition offers authentic project management documents produced alongside the project case study and equips readers with a solid understanding of why specific processes are used, why certain decisions are made, and how pieces of project management fit together. Suitable for any discipline or industry, Understanding Project Management promises to be an engaging and worthwhile read.

Dave C. Barrett is a full-time Professor and Program Coordinator of Project Management at Conestoga College in Kitchener, Ontario. He joined Conestoga's School of Business in 2004, after working 21 years in the private industry, where he led large-scale IT integration projects. Barrett holds Bachelor of Math and Master of Business Administration degrees as well as his Project Management Professional designation.

FEATURES

- additional key terms, illustrations, practical examples, and references to the Project Management Body of Knowledge
- readers follow an ongoing case study, gaining insight into the thought processes and resulting actions of a project manager, including the creation of project documents
- robust instructor resources include new case studies, which can be used for in-class activities and discussions

Agile Project Delivery

A Practical Approach for Corporate Environments Beyond Software Development

AARON A. BLAIR

Agile Project Delivery: A Practical Approach for Corporate Environments Beyond Software Development reviews how various Agile methods can be applied to project management in complex corporate environments beyond the software development sphere. Readers will learn various techniques across the many methodologies that are part of the Agile family, including Scrum, XP, and Crystal, as well as some of Agile's influences, such as Lean and Kanban.

Written to bridge the gap between Agile methodology and application, this concise text features practical delivery approaches, specific case studies, unique templates to assist in Agile application, and chapter discussion questions to reinforce understanding on how to harness Agile techniques. With a wide focus on a variety of settings outside of software development, this pedagogically rich text is an invaluable resource for students in any project management course at the college and university levels as well as for both aspiring and experienced project practitioners.

Aaron A. Blair is a Professor of Project Management at Conestoga College and an accomplished executive and team builder with over 20 years of experience. Aaron is a strategic leader with a proven track record of building organizational capability, successfully delivering projects, and creating and managing high-performance teams across many major functions. He is a PMI Project Management Professional, a Certified Professional in Health Information and Management Systems, and a Certified Scrum Master.

FEATURES

- offers advanced instructions on how to use Atlassian's industry-leading Agile software, Jira
- discusses the application of Agile methods in non-software development industries, featuring case studies that follow a project manager working through a large health care-related project
- features lists of key terms, case studies, templates, informative figures, discussion questions, and a concluding glossary
- includes lecture slides and an exam test bank for instructors

Strategic Communication in Canada

Planning Effective PR Campaigns

BERNARD GAUTHIER

Informed by decades of agency experience, Bernard Gauthier prepares aspiring public relations students to think strategically as they plan and create campaigns. In the first part of the book, readers will be taken through the main phases of conducting a situation analysis—a prerequisite to developing strategy. In part two, readers will move from raw materials to finished, polished strategy. Readers will then use a planning model to help organize knowledge and draw conclusions. This easy-to-follow text features 10 chapters packed with practical advice and study tools, such as learning objectives, key terms and concepts, and critical reflection questions.

This textbook is an essential, to-the-point read for students studying public relations and marketing communication; business strategy; and journalism and public affairs.

Bernard Gauthier is a Professor and Program Coordinator of the Bachelor of Public Relations program at Conestoga College, Doon Campus.

Professional Communications in the Public Sector

A Practical Guide

TED GLENN

In this enterprising text, Ted Glenn equips fledgling public sector communications professionals with the information they need to be successful in their new roles. Leveraging his years of experience in this growing field, Glenn discusses how to present policy goals to different audiences and tailor messages to their needs, write gripping speeches, and use digital media in a world where one ill-phrased tweet can sink a career. Chapters are enriched with activities that walk students through the many responsibilities of public service professionals and encourage them to think strategically in quickly evolving situations.

Professional Communications in the Public Sector is indispensable reading for students of public administration, communications, policy studies, media studies, and advertising.

Ted Glenn is a Professor and Program Coordinator of Public Administration at Humber College. An advisor to various Canadian governments for over 20 years, Dr. Glenn specializes in public sector training and governance.

Research and the Field of Child and Youth Care

An Invitation

BY KIARAS GHARABAGHI

In an inviting and conversational style, author Kiaras Gharabaghi offers a concise guide introducing foundational research methods for the study and practice of child and youth care, aiming to awaken a lifelong interest in how research can inform, improve, and evoke critical reflection on what child and youth care is, and can be, about. Presenting research as a relational tool, the text builds basic practical research skills, such as how to conduct interviews and focus groups, how to construct research questions and surveys, and how to select research designs to best serve each project.

This essential volume highlights research as an important element of child and youth care practice, explores different qualitative and quantitative research designs, and examines how they are implemented, including various aspects of recruiting research subjects, the collection and analysis of data, and the limitations of research. Written from an explicitly anti-racist perspective, the text includes a chapter dedicated to Afrocentric and Indigenous research approaches and draws all its examples from the field of child and youth care.

The rich in-text pedagogical features include a glossary of key terms and two appendices that detail an ethics protocol and describe a small research project from start to finish. Students of child and youth care, social work, and youth work/development programs are bound to appreciate this engaging and highly readable text.

Kiaras Gharabaghi is a Professor in the School of Child and Youth Care and the Dean of the Faculty of Community Services at Toronto Metropolitan University, specializing in child and youth care ethics, organizational change, residential care and treatment, and international practice. He has over 20 years of front-line experience in the child mental health, child welfare, and youth homelessness sectors and is the co-editor of Child and Youth Care across Sectors, Volumes 1 and 2, and the author of A Hard Place to Call Home.

FEATURES

- covers the politics of research, the intersections of research and advocacy work, and Afrocentric and Indigenous research lenses
- features text boxes showcasing research insights, interviews with child and youth care researchers, and ethical considerations
- accessible for those new to research in child and youth care, while offering insight into how to deeply understand research at more advanced levels of engagement

Doing Ethics in Child and Youth Care A North American Reader

EDITED BY VARDA R. MANN-FEDER

A unique text to the field, Doing Ethics in Child and Youth Care serves as an essential introductory guide to ethical practice across a range of child and youth care settings within North America.

Organized into three parts, this volume begins by introducing the code of ethics for child and youth care professionals in North America as well as the ethical theories and the foundational skills to “do ethics,” including cultural humility, reflexivity, and ethical problem solving. The second part moves on to orient readers to a broad range of considerations for adopting an ethical stance, such as boundary management, responsibilities to the profession, community development and youth participation, and Indigenous perspectives on child and youth care ethics. Part three features some of the different settings in which child and youth care is practised in North America, such as substitute care, family work, intervention in schools, social media, research, and ethics training and supervision, and examines the unique ethical challenges in each of these settings.

With contributions from leading child and youth care scholars in Canada and the United States, this is a must-read for post-secondary students and professional training programs in child and youth care, child and youth studies, and youth work across North America.

Varda R. Mann-Feder is a Professor of Applied Human Sciences at Concordia University and former Department Chair, known for her research and publications on aging out of care and her advocacy on behalf of youth in placement. She worked as a consulting psychologist in the child welfare system in Montreal for 30 years and was the founding Program Director for the Graduate Diploma in Youth Work at Concordia.

FEATURES

- contributions from researchers, practitioners, and scholars from Canada and the United States
- practice examples and reflective exercises to engage readers in developing an approach to ethical practice across a range of child and youth care settings
- appendices containing the full Standards for Practice of North American Child and Youth Care Professionals and a list of resources for ethical dilemmas and case studies to practise doing ethics

Introduction to Mental Health for Child and Youth Care

PATTI RANAHAH AND STANLEY KUTCHER, WITH MINA HASHISH

Recognizing the importance of mental health literacy, Introduction to Mental Health for Child and Youth Care is specifically designed to meet the professional practice needs of child and youth care practitioners. The first half examines the practitioner’s role in mental health care, issues with interprofessional communication and self-care, Indigenous perspectives on wellness, cultural safety and continuity, stigma, the domains of brain functioning, and how diagnoses are ascertained. Specific attention toward understanding mental health care through the theoretical perspectives of resilience, attachment, and trauma-informed care and unpacking the process of suicide intervention is offered. The second half addresses symptoms and interventions of various disorders common in child and adolescent populations, including mood disorders, anxiety disorders, feeding and eating disorders, and autism spectrum disorder, in reference to the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders.

Readers will appreciate the organized structure, up-to-date content, and practical approach used in this textbook. Introduction to Mental Health for Child and Youth Care is an essential resource in mental health courses in child and youth care, human services, and social work programs.

Patti Ranahan is an Associate Professor in Applied Human Sciences at Concordia University. Her child and youth care practice experience spans a range of settings, including residential care, outpatient mental health, and family support. Stanley Kutcher is a Professor Emeritus of Psychiatry in the Faculty of Medicine, Dalhousie University. He is an internationally acknowledged expert in youth mental health and was appointed to the Senate of Canada in 2018. Mina Hashish is a health care professional, researcher, and writer in the field of child and adolescent mental health.

FEATURES

- includes examples of evidence-based and emerging interventions designed to address specific disorders
- features links to online videos and further readings, as well as reflective activities that can be implemented in class or group discussions to encourage further exploration

Child and Youth Care across Sectors Volumes 1 and 2

Canadian Perspectives

EDITED BY KIARAS GHARABAGHI AND GRANT CHARLES

A pivotal textbook in the field, these comprehensive collections examine all active child and youth care sectors across the human services. Co-editors Kiaras Gharabaghi and Grant Charles bring together world-renowned professionals, academics, and researchers to address the past, present, and future state of child and youth care. Volume 1 examines practice in a range of service sectors, including residential care, foster homes, schools, cyberspace, outdoor adventure settings, and services that support Québécois, deaf, autistic, and LGBTQ+ communities. Volume 2 includes groundbreaking chapters on pertinent topics from homelessness to immigration, anti-racism, African-centred praxis, and Indigenous ways of being. Expanding from the first volume, this text explores additional settings of child and youth care, including hospitals, schools, day treatment programs, and the complicated youth criminal justice sector.

Kiaras Gharabaghi is a Professor in the School of Child and Youth Care and Dean of the Faculty of Community Services at Toronto Metropolitan University, specializing in child and youth care ethics, organizational change, residential care and treatment, and international practice. He has over 20 years of front-line experience in the child mental health, child welfare, and youth homelessness sectors. Grant Charles is an Associate Professor in the School of Social Work and an affiliated faculty member in the Division of Adolescent Health and Medicine in the Faculty of Medicine at the University of British Columbia. His research specializes in child and youth mental health and child welfare. He currently sits on several editorial boards, including the International Journal of Child, Youth and Family Studies and Advances in Mental Health.

Praise for Volume 1:

“This collection of chapters provides students with an eclectic look at Canadian child and youth care practice. Written from the unique perspectives of child and youth care professionals and educators, students are offered a look at varying areas of practice to assemble knowledge from.”

Child and Youth Care in the Field

A Practicum Guidebook

CARYS CRAGG

The first of its kind, this practicum-specific resource serves as an accompanying guidebook for fieldwork, placement, or classroom instruction in child and youth care practice. Child and Youth Care in the Field: A Practicum Guidebook uses critical reflection to facilitate student learning and growth throughout the practicum experience. Students can apply and build upon the theory and skills acquired during their fieldwork by utilizing the engaging workbook features and writing spaces included in the text. This resource helps prepare students for practicum and expands their self-awareness by discussing the challenges and difficulties they will encounter in the field and by providing insight on how to navigate the decision-making process.

Carys Cragg is faculty in Child, Family, and Community Studies at Douglas College, current coordinator of the Child and Youth Care program, past coordinator of the Aboriginal Stream, and teaches practicum in Child and Youth Care, Youth Justice, and the Aboriginal Stream. She has 15 years of experience working with children, youth, and their families in community mental health, crisis support, youth outreach, educational, research, program development, and quality assurance roles.

A Tapestry of Relational Child and Youth Care Competencies

THERESA FRASER AND MARY VENTRELLA

This foundational resource is the first to explicitly detail the child and youth care (CYC) core competencies for students preparing to take the Child and Youth Care Professional (CYC-P) certification exam. Designed according to the Child and Youth Care Certification Board (CYCCB), this book offers a comprehensive review of the five domains of CYC practitioner competencies: professionalism, cultural and human diversity, applied human development, relationship and communication, and developmental practice methods. Pedagogical tools bring concepts to life through critical discussion and reflection. The text is packed with tables, reflection questions, end-of-chapter reference lists, glossary terms, and real-world case studies. A unique and practical textbook, this is an indispensable resource for introductory courses in child and youth care programs.

Theresa Fraser is a Professor of Child and Youth Care at Sheridan College. She is a Registered Psychotherapist and Registered Counselling Therapist. Mary Ventrella is a Certified Child and Youth Counsellor and Registered Psychotherapist who holds her PhD in Counseling Studies from Capella University.

Reflective Practice in Child and Youth Care A Manual

DONICKA BUDD

A unique manual to the discipline, Reflective Practice in Child and Youth Care addresses the need for distinct models of reflective practice across all child and youth care (CYC) sectors. This groundbreaking work contextualizes the history of reflective practice and provides readers with the necessary tools to develop their own approach to reflective practice. Special topics and key concepts include reflective practice theory, the mindfulness-reflection connection, and transformative learning techniques. Aligned with the CYC Code of Ethics and the CYC Competencies of Professionalism, this book promotes self-awareness and critical self-reflection through case studies, end-of-chapter discussion questions, reflective writing templates, and self-assessment exercises.

Donicka Budd is currently practising as a Registered Psychotherapist. She holds over 20 years of front-line experience supporting children, youth, families, and staff teams through her work in residential homes, school boards, children's mental health agencies, and private practices. She has also taught for 11 years in Child and Youth Care programs in Ontario colleges.

A Hard Place to Call Home A Canadian Perspective on Residential Care and Treatment for Children and Youth

KIARAS GHARABAGHI

This well-timed resource offers the child and youth services community a positive, constructive, and revolutionary framework for residential care and treatment that is fundamentally based on a partnership between caregivers and young people, their families, neighbourhoods, and communities. By drawing on organizational examples from across Canada, Gharabaghi exposes how the historical dynamics of mediocrity and complacency have led to inadequate standards and practices within the system. Dr. Gharabaghi's sophisticated and provocative analysis of the system's key issues is an essential resource for students, practitioners, and educators in the field of child and youth care and human services more broadly.

Kiaras Gharabaghi is a Professor in the School of Child and Youth Care and Dean of the Faculty of Community Services at Toronto Metropolitan University, specializing in child and youth care ethics, organizational change, residential care and treatment, and international practice.

Child and Youth Mental Health in Canada Cases from Front-Line Settings

EDITED BY PATRICIA KOSTOUROS AND BRENDA THOMPSON

Child and Youth Mental Health in Canada is a practical guide for front-line practitioners who look beyond diagnostic labels. Offering a progressive response to mental health concerns that is humane and effective, the text focuses on understanding behaviour and intervening from a relational perspective. This discussion illuminates setting-appropriate interventions and activities to meet the needs of practitioners and clients, including the unique needs of immigrant, refugee, Indigenous, and LGBTQ+ children and youth. Written by scholars and professionals in the field, this edited collection is an essential learning resource for students in child and adolescent mental health courses in child and youth care, psychology, social work, and nursing.

Patricia Kostouros is an Associate Professor in the Department of Child Studies and Social Work at Mount Royal University.

Brenda Thompson is an Instructor in both the Child and Youth Care Bachelor Degree and the Correctional Services Diploma programs at MacEwan University.

The Sociology of Childhood and Youth in Canada

EDITED BY XIAOBEI CHEN, REBECCA RABY,
AND PATRIZIA ALBANESE

The Sociology of Childhood and Youth in Canada brings together cutting-edge Canadian scholarship in this important and growing discipline. This edited collection explores a breadth of essential topics, including research on and with children and youth, the social construction of childhood and youth, intersecting identities, and citizenship, rights, and social engagement. With a focus on social justice, the contributing authors critically examine various sites of inequality in the lives of children and young people, such as gender, sexuality, colonialism, race, class, and disability. Pedagogical supports—including learning objectives, study questions, suggested research assignments, and a comprehensive glossary—make this volume an invaluable resource for students of childhood and youth, child and youth care, and early childhood education programs across Canada.

Xiaobei Chen is an Associate Professor in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at Carleton University. Rebecca Raby is a Professor in the Department of Child and Youth Studies at Brock University. Patrizia Albanese is a Professor in the Department of Sociology at Toronto Metropolitan University.

Youth and Society The Long and Winding Road, Third Edition

VAPPU TYYSKÄ

In this essential third edition, Vappu Tyyskä examines the challenges faced by today's young people through a critical lens. Difficult questions related to such issues as employment, education, social pressure, identity, and crime are explored by Tyyskä as she paints a fascinating picture of modern youth in three countries: Canada, the United States, and the United Kingdom. The author explores the negative stereotypes surrounding young people and argues that it is time to contextualize our understanding of youth by addressing the underlying social, economic, and political issues they face. This new edition incorporates updated statistics, comprehensive tables, and revised narratives in which the author explores topics pertinent to today's youth, such as the influence of social media, eating disorders, and recent changes to the juvenile justice system.

Vappu Tyyskä is a Professor of Sociology at Toronto Metropolitan University, where she is also affiliated with and teaches in the MA Program in Immigration and Settlement Studies and the PhD Program in Policy Studies. Her major areas of research include immigrant families, youth, gender, and family relations.

Creative Industries in Canada

EDITED BY CHERYL THOMPSON AND MIRANDA CAMPBELL

Creative Industries in Canada is a foundational text that encourages students to think critically about creative industries within a Canadian context and interrogate the current state and future possibilities of the industry. While much of current creative industries literature concerns the United Kingdom, the United States, and Asia, this text captures the breadth of how Canadian industries are organized and experienced, and how they operate.

This ambitious collection aims to guide students through the current landscape of Canadian creative industries through three thematic sections. “Production” collects chapters focused on how national discourses and identities are produced through creative industries and the tensions that exist between policy and media. “Participation” explores how we engage with these industries in different roles: as consumer, creator, policy-maker, and more. “Pedagogies” explores how education impacts inclusion and visibility in creative industries.

Dr. Cheryl Thompson is an Assistant Professor in the School of Performance at Toronto Metropolitan University. She previously held a Banting post-doctoral fellowship at the University of Toronto. Dr. Thompson has published two books: Uncle: Race, Nostalgia, and the Politics of Loyalty (2021) and Beauty in a Box: Detangling the Roots of Canada's Black Beauty Culture (2019). Dr. Miranda Campbell is an Associate Professor, Creative Industries at Toronto Metropolitan University. She is the author of Reimagining the Creative Industries: Youth Creative Work, Communities of Care (2022) and How to Care More: Seven Skills for Personal and Social Change (2022).

FEATURES

- provides an intersectional perspective of current creative industries in Canada, critiquing how diversity, inclusion, and equity impact the field
- broadens the scope of Canadian creative industries by exploring underexamined fields like podcasting, gaming, comedy, education, performance art, and more
- pedagogically rich, with a glossary of terms, outlines of core concepts, and suggested activities for each chapter

Canadian Communication Policy and Law

SARA BANNERMAN

Canadian Communication Policy and Law provides a uniquely Canadian perspective on telecommunications policy, broadcasting policy, internet regulation, freedom of expression, censorship, defamation, privacy, government surveillance, intellectual property, and more. Taking a critical stance, Sara Bannerman draws attention to unequal power structures by asking the question: Whom does Canadian communication policy and law serve?

Key theories for analysis of law and policy issues, such as pluralist, libertarian, critical political economy, Marxist, feminist, queer, critical race, critical disability, postcolonial, and intersectional theories, are discussed in detail in this accessibly written text. From critical and theoretical analysis to legal research and citation skills, Canadian Communication Policy and Law encourages deep analytic engagement. Serving as a valuable resource for students who are undertaking research and writing on legal topics for the first time, this comprehensive text is well suited for undergraduate communication and media studies programs.

Sara Bannerman, Canada Research Chair in Communication Policy and Governance, is an Associate Professor of Communication Studies at McMaster University. She researches and teaches on communication policy and governance and directs McMaster’s Communications Governance Observatory. She has published two books on international copyright as well as numerous peer-reviewed articles and book chapters on international copyright, privacy, and other topics in new media, traditional media, and communications theory.

FEATURES

- includes a practical chapter on how to do legal and policy research and how to cite legal sources
- contains in-text pedagogy including suggested readings and a comprehensive glossary

The Spaces and Places of Canadian Popular Culture

EDITED BY VICTORIA KANNEN AND NEIL SHYMINSKY

An exclusively Canadian textbook, this collection investigates the relationships between identity, geography, and popular culture that are produced and consumed in this sprawling country. Expanding beyond the clichés of friendliness and snow, this text provides a fresh perspective on what it means to be Canadian, both nationally and transnationally. Scholars look at historical subjects like Québécois identity and Indigenous self-representation and explore issues in contemporary media, including music, film, television, comic books, video games, and social media. From Drake to the Tragically Hip, Trailer Park Boys to The Amazing Race Canada, and poutine to maple syrup, mainstream icons and trends are studied in the interdisciplinary context of race, gender, sexuality, politics, and patriotism. Contributing to the location of Canadian popular culture, this unique resource will engage students and scholars of communication studies, cultural studies, and Canadian studies.

Victoria Kannen writes and teaches on the subjects of identity, embodiments, education, and popular culture. She holds a PhD in Sociology and Equity Studies in Education from the University of Toronto. Neil Shyminsky is a Professor in the School of Justice, Community Services, and General Studies at Cambrian College. He is the artist of the book cover.

FEATURES

- includes key concepts and theories and a glossary
- engages students with relatable historical and contemporary examples of Canadiana through a breadth of media, including television shows, websites, journals, celebrities, newspapers, literature, comic books, video games, music, and films
- ensures equal representation of a national and transnational Canada, which includes examples of race, gender, sexuality, and ethnicity, with particular attention to geographical intricacies that contain all provinces and territories

Academic Writing

The Complete Guide, Third Edition

STEVEN C. ROE AND PAMELA H. DEN OUDEN

The authors of Academic Writing use discipline-based research papers to discuss preliminary steps to academic-level writing such as research, note-taking, summarizing, and drafting a proposal. They trace the development of scholarly papers through introductions, core paragraphs, and conclusions, and they close with essential chapters on writing in the sciences, and revision and proofreading.

In its third edition, Academic Writing now offers chapter learning objectives, annotated passages that illustrate aspects of academic style, and a glossary. Furthermore, every chapter ends with articles that can be used for stylistic analysis. These rich pedagogical features accompanied by the authors’ clear, step-by-step instructions make this book an ideal guide for all students who want to improve their academic writing skills.

Steven C. Roe has been teaching English for more than 15 years and currently teaches at Northern Lights College. Pamela H. den Ouden teaches English and English as a Second Language at Northern Lights College.

FEATURES

- for both students and teachers: full-length research papers written by published scholars and by students
- for instructors: a complete supplementary package that contains PowerPoint slides, an exam bank, and ideas for student activities

Teaching English

A Practical Guide for Language Teachers
GRAEME CHING

Designed as an all-in-one guide, this practical, easy-to-use text is essential to all courses offering instruction to students who are training to become language teachers in Canada and abroad. Awarded the 2017 TESL Canada Innovation Award for Teacher Professional Development Resource, this wonderfully concise textbook covers key topics, including course design, lesson planning, and classroom management. This edition has been well updated and includes a new section on using technology in the classroom, expanded coverage of assessment, and new questions and suggested further readings in each chapter. It also identifies how to teach speaking, listening, reading, and writing, with special attention to language acquisition and intercultural communication. This essential resource is ideal for courses in teaching English as a second or foreign language and for certificates in TESL, TEFL, TESFL, or TESOL.

Graeme Ching is the Director of TESL and TEFL Programs at Crandall University as well as a Senior Lecturer in English and Language Education. He is also a recipient of the TESL Canada Innovation Award for teaching training materials and the Steeves Excellence in Teaching Award.

Media Literacy for Citizenship A Canadian Perspective

KIRSTEN KOZOLANKA AND PAUL ORŁOWSKI

Offering a critical perspective, Media Literacy for Citizenship emphasizes the ability to analyze media messages as a fundamental component of engaged citizenship. The first five chapters explore the landscape of the media today, while the next four chapters examine how the media presents specific topics, including climate change, diversity, Indigeneity, war, and terror, and a final chapter concludes with a discussion of the role and future of journalism in society. Each chapter forms a mini-lesson and encompasses three core elements: an essay on a subject area important to critical media literacy, a list of case examples that can be used for assignments, and a list of key terms common to all chapters and cases.

The diverse topics of study and the rich pedagogy make this book a perfect resource for courses in communications, journalism, media studies, and education.

Kirsten Kozolanka is a Professor Emerita in the School of Journalism and Communications at Carleton University.

Paul Orłowski is an Associate Professor in the College of Education at the University of Saskatchewan.

From Flappers to Rappers

The Origins, Evolution, and Demise of Youth Culture

MARCEL DANESI

Adopting a historical-critical perspective, From Flappers to Rappers traces the origins of youth in the Roaring Twenties, a distinct form of culture that was revived by the rock and roll rebels of the 1950s, to an increasingly inclusive digital era at the turn of the 21st century. Positioning youth culture as a 20th-century social experiment that is coming to an end, Marcel Danesi discusses the various musically defined eras that saw rise to hippie culture, punk, disco, and the hip-hop movement, among other social groups.

The chapters explore how these generations were instrumental in the fight against racial discrimination, gender discrimination, and sexual repression. This accessible book analyzes how society is evolving in an age of globalization and new technologies that threaten youth culture and questions what this shift implies for the world today. This textbook is an invaluable resource for students and teachers of sociology, anthropology, and cultural studies.

Marcel Danesi is a Professor of Semiotics and Linguistic Anthropology in the Department of Anthropology at the University of Toronto.

The Tattoo Project Commemorative Tattoos, Visual Culture, and the Digital Archive

EDITED BY DEBORAH DAVIDSON

Unique in scope and content, this methods-based text draws on the process of creating a digital archive of commemorative tattoos (<http://thetattoo-project.info>) to examine the production and mobilization of knowledge across communities, disciplines, and space. Deborah Davidson's multidisciplinary collection addresses the cultural history of tattooing and the social meanings and implications of commemorative tattoos—tattoos that hold significant value for their bearer.

A practical resource for those undertaking archival research or collecting and sharing information across disciplines, The Tattoo Project builds connections between academic and non-academic communities and bridges the gap between theory and practice to provide innovative content for those studying the body, visual culture, and commemoration.

Challenging Notions

Critical Victimology in Canada, Third Edition

TAMMY C. LANDAU

The expanded third edition of Challenging Notions introduces students to both the theoretical and applied aspects of victimology, and provides a critical foundation for evaluation. Tammy Landau, an expert in criminal justice, explores patterns of victimization in Canada, the experiences of Indigenous peoples in the criminal justice system, restorative approaches to victimization, and the challenges presented when the state is the perpetrator of crime.

This new edition contains updated statistics, census data, case studies, and discussion questions. New intersectional topics include trauma-informed justice and social movements such as #MeToo and Black Lives Matter, as well as information from the Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) report.

With current scholarship, carefully curated cases, and thoughtful chapter discussion questions, this uniquely Canadian text is a valuable resource for second- and third-year victimology classrooms.

Tammy C. Landau is an Associate Professor of Criminal Justice and Criminology at Toronto Metropolitan University.

FEATURES

- employs restorative approaches to victimization and trauma-informed justice
- updated to engage with intersectional topics and current social movements such as #MeToo and Black Lives Matter

Crime, Deviance, and Social Control in the 21st Century

A Justice and Rights Perspective

EDITED BY CLAUDIO COLAGUORI

Crime, Deviance, and Social Control in the 21st Century seeks to go beyond traditional criminology texts and handle the subject through a perspective focusing on power interest and social justice. Timely and accessibly written, the text provides a comprehensive overview of social and criminological theory, as well as recent trends in theorizing power and deviance. It also delves into the significant implications the committal and control of crime have for human rights.

This text aims to answer the questions: “Who has the power to decide which acts are deviant?”; “Whose interests are being served by a given law?”; and “Which social groups are being disadvantaged when society has been constructed along such legally demarcated lines?” The contributors dissect the criminalization of dissent, the changing nature of what constitutes deviance, internet hate, self-harming, transgender identities, the growing rise of transnational criminal enterprises, internet fraud, and the increased public attention on police practices.

With a Canadian focus placed in a global context, the text challenges readers to consider crime and deviance as socially structured phenomena, while recognizing that crime is a worldwide issue. Crime, Deviance, and Social Control in the 21st Century is a critical resource for undergraduate students in criminology, police services, and sociology.

Claudio Colaguori is an Associate Professor in the Department of Equity Studies at York University. His research is informed by the fundamentals of Critical Theory and the application of its concepts and themes to the study of power relations in various fields.

FEATURES

- offers an accessible and comprehensive introductory overview of criminology theory
- employs a social justice approach to the fundamentals of criminology, deviance, law, and social control
- includes bolded key terms, a glossary, real-world case studies, and questions for critical thinking

Canadian Organized Crime Second Edition

STEPHEN SCHNEIDER

The second edition of Stephen Schneider’s highly regarded Canadian Organized Crime provides an introduction to criminal syndicates, organized crimes, and enforcement principles and practices in Canada. This widely informative and accessible new edition continues its comprehensive historical, empirical, and theoretical overview of organized crime in Canada with numerous case studies that make the material vivid and understandable for students.

Incorporating new research, recent Canadian cases, and current enforcement structures and laws in Canada, this text will give readers a broad understanding of the social, political, and economic forces that contribute to the continued existence of organized crime in Canada. The text examines new trends and developments that have affected organized crime since the first edition, including the ongoing revolution in digital communications (the internet dark web), the proliferation of cryptocurrency, the opioid epidemic, organized criminality in the time of COVID, the growing power of the ‘Ndrangheta in Ontario, the fallout from the implosion of Quebec’s Rizzuto mafia family, and the new business model employed by the Hells Angels throughout Canada.

This textbook will appeal to students in criminology, sociology, political science, and law and justice programs; criminal justice professionals working in the field of organized crime enforcement; and readers interested in true crime literature.

Stephen Schneider is a Professor in the Criminology Department at Saint Mary’s University. Having conducted research in the field of organized crime for more than 25 years, Professor Schneider brings original, insightful, and engrossing perspectives on the topic.

FEATURES

- new contemporary case studies on money laundering in British Columbia, COVID-19 frauds perpetrated by criminal groups in Canada and other countries, and more
- updated scholarship surrounding the study of Canadian organized crime and its enforcement, including recent research and theory development
- revised instructor supplements, including PowerPoint slides, assignment suggestions, exam questions, and two additional web-based chapters on international organized crime groups

Negotiation and Conflict Resolution in Criminal Practice

A Handbook

REBECCA JAREMKO BROMWICH AND THOMAS HARRISON

This handbook extensively discusses theories of negotiation and conflict resolution in criminal practice. Part one discusses communicating effectively and appropriately with clients, court staff, and opposing counsel by identifying and establishing cultural competence, rapport, and non-verbal cues. Part two identifies alternative processes in negotiation and conflict resolution, including victim-offender mediation and retroactive justice, while part three covers career development in areas such as managing challenging clients and developing strategies for dealing with high-stress scenarios. This groundbreaking resource is well suited to students in a wide variety of courses that specialize in negotiation and conflict resolution, including criminal justice, law, paralegal, police studies, and criminology.

Security and Risk Technologies in Criminal Justice

Critical Perspectives

EDITED BY STACEY HANNEM, CARRIE B. SANDERS, CHRISTOPHER J. SCHNEIDER, AARON DOYLE, AND TONY CHRISTENSEN

Security and Risk Technologies in Criminal Justice takes students through the evolution of risk technology devices, processes, and prevention. This seminal text unpacks technology's influence on our understanding of governance and social order in areas of criminal justice, policing, and security and explores the impact of big data, traditional risk practices, and the increased reliance on technology in criminal justice. With both national and international appeal, this vital resource is ideal for undergraduate and graduate students in criminology, police studies, or sociology.

Police Response To Mental Health in Canada

EDITED BY UZMA WILLIAMS, DANIEL J. JONES, AND JOHN R. WILLIAMS

The overwhelming majority of police calls involve individuals experiencing mental health crises, and yet limited resources exist to prepare first responders for these interactions. Police Response to Mental Health in Canada addresses this gap in the field, providing practical guidance to police studies students on how best to respond to mental health-related calls in both critical and non-critical situations. Written in an accessible style, this book includes pedagogical tools such as scenario-based learning, case studies, reflection questions, group activities, and chapter summaries to reinforce the learning objectives outlined at the start of each chapter.

Uzma Williams is a Sessional Instructor at MacEwan University in the Police Studies program who teaches mental health and response to abnormal behaviour. Daniel J. Jones is a senior leader in a Canadian police service and holds over 20 years of front-line experience working in homicide, hate crimes, specialized investigations, and Indigenous relations. John R. Reddon is an Adjunct Professor of Psychology at the University of Alberta and has worked at the Alberta Hospital Edmonton since 1983.

Ethics and Canadian Law Enforcement

RICHARD PARENT AND CATHERINE PARENT

Ethics and Canadian Law Enforcement offers a comprehensive overview of law enforcement decision-making procedures in Canada and evaluates the ethical conduct expected of law enforcement personnel, such as police officers, sheriffs, correctional officers, and private security. Dr. Richard Parent, a police officer for more than 30 years, draws on his professional experience to examine codes of conduct, internal investigations, misconduct and discipline, and the purpose of the civilian review.

This accessible resource, which features boxed examples, chapter summaries, key terms, self-evaluation questions, and critical thinking exercises, is ideal for college and university students enrolled in police foundation and criminal justice programs, as well as law enforcement training agencies.

Richard Parent is an Associate Professor of Police Studies in the School of Criminology at Simon Fraser University. Catherine Parent, MEd, is a nurse clinician, researcher, writer, and educator promoting individual and family mental health who also collaborates with Richard Parent in policing projects.

Diversity, Justice, and Community The Canadian Context

EDITED BY BEVERLY-JEAN M. DANIEL

This groundbreaking resource will introduce readers to community justice, a growing field dedicated to mobilizing communities as active partners in crime control. Providing a solid foundation in the relevant theoretical approaches, frameworks, and terminology, contributors highlight the barriers and injustices diverse populations face when interacting with Canada's criminal justice system. Beverly-Jean Daniel's edited anthology investigates the specific experiences of differently located groups, including Indigenous women and girls, LGBTQ people, Somali youth, and others, working toward possible solutions to issues of justice and equity at both the community and institutional levels.

Beverly-Jean M. Daniel is a Professor in the Community and Justice Services Program at Humber College in Toronto. For over 20 years, her academic work has investigated and conceptualized race, racism, and equity. In 2012, Dr. Daniel founded and developed The Bridge, a groundbreaking student engagement and retention program at Humber College.

Youth in Conflict with the Law Fourth Edition

DENISE WHITEHEAD AND MARK D. HUNTER

Dealing with young people who come into conflict with the law is one of the most important parts of being a police officer. Now in its fourth edition, Youth in Conflict with the Law provides up-to-date analysis on how police handle young persons. The fourth edition focuses on new and updated legislation, such as the Canadian Victims Bill of Rights, the Safe Streets and Communities Act, and the Child, Youth and Family Services Act. The authors include new material on issues of race, the Black Lives Matter movement, mental health, ethnicity, and social media. Encouraging students to consider the problem of youth crime within social contexts and to recognize the factors that lead youth to enter into conflict with the law, this resource is ideal for college police foundations students across Canada.

Trauma-Informed Youth Justice in Canada

A New Framework toward a Kinder Future

JUDAH OUDSHOORN

Most youth who come into conflict with the law have experienced some form of trauma, yet many justice professionals are ill-equipped to deal with the effects trauma has on youth and instead reinforce a system that further traumatizes young offenders while ignoring the needs of victims. By taking a trauma-informed perspective, this text provides a much-needed alternative—one that allows for interventions based on principles of healing and restorative justice, rather than on punishment and risk assessment. The author tackles problems facing youth justice today, especially the ongoing cycles of intergenerational trauma caused by the colonization of Indigenous peoples and patriarchal violence, and demonstrates how a trauma-informed approach to youth justice can work toward preventing crime and healing offenders, victims, and communities. This engaging text is the perfect resource for college and university students in the field of youth justice.

Judah Oudshoorn is a Professor of Community and Criminal Justice at Conestoga College. He is also a Restorative Justice Mediator with the Correctional Service of Canada, a Sessional Instructor of Peace and Conflict Studies at the University of Waterloo, and an Editorial Board Member of the Internet Journal of Restorative Justice.

Trauma-Informed Juvenile Justice in the United States

JUDAH OUDSHOORN

Judah Oudshoorn addresses the context of youth offending by examining both individual trauma—including its emotional, cognitive, and behavioural effects—and collective trauma. The volume tackles some of the most challenging problems facing juvenile justice in the United States today, especially the ongoing cycles of intergenerational trauma caused by patriarchal violence and the over-incarceration of African American, Latino, and Native American youth. Featuring a foreword written by Howard Zehr, case stories from the author's own work with victims and offenders, questions for reflection, glossaries of key terms, and lists of recommended readings, this engaging text is the ideal resource for students in the field of juvenile justice.

Praise for this title:

“This wonderfully exciting new text brings together a refreshing mix of essays, poetry, provocations, and stories to explore the ways in which disability is concealed and revealed. Working with the frictional concept of ‘DisAppearing,’ the contributors provide a number of entry points into disability studies—and studies of disability—demanding readers to ponder how and why disability matters in our everyday lives.”

DisAppearing

Encounters in Disability Studies

EDITED BY TANYA TITCHKOSKY, ELAINE CAGULADA,
AND MADELEINE DEWELLES, WITH EFRAT GOLD

DisAppearing offers a relational orientation to disability studies. From encounters with disability and disabled people in educational settings from elementary school to university, in novels and other texts, in hospitals and policing, in dance, on the street, and in community centres, as well as in considerations of injury and healing, and life and death, the chapters in this collection explore a variety of cultural scenes of disability. By doing so, this collection reveals what disability can mean through scenes of its dis/appearance and demonstrates how to remake these meanings in more life-affirming ways.

Encouraging critical engagement with how disability is noticed and lived, the many chapters, as well as poetry, narrative, and a podcast transcript, reveal the meaning of disability appearing and disappearing in everyday life and beyond. Bringing together the work of scholars, artists, and activists, many of whom identify as disabled, DisAppearing encourages students to approach disability differently and to reimagine its appearance in the world. Engaging, political, artistic, and philosophical, this text, with an emphasis on the Canadian context, is an invaluable resource for disability studies students and instructors.

Cover art statement:

“The title of My Will Remains is drawn from a quote by Frida Kahlo (1907–1954), the Mexican artist. Her work resonates with me as an artist who has worked lying down, as she did. I have joined her, proclaiming my sisterhood as I work lying down due to my pain and fatigue with my disability. Kahlo is my role model for persisting, for working—lying down does not mean being unproductive.”

Untold Stories

A Canadian Disability History Reader

EDITED BY NANCY HANSEN, ROY HANES, AND DIANE DRIEDGER

This collection focuses on Canadians with mental, physical, and cognitive disabilities and discusses the ways in which they lived, worked, and influenced public policy in Canada.

Organized by time period, the 23 chapters in this collection are authored by a diverse group of scholars who discuss the untold histories of Canadians with disabilities—Canadians who influenced science and technology, law, education, health care, and social justice. Selected chapters discuss disabilities among Indigenous women, the importance of community inclusion, the ubiquity of stairs in the Montréal Métro, and the ethics of disability research.

Untold Stories: A Canadian Disability History Reader offers an exceptional presentation of influential people with various disabilities who brought about social change and helped to make Canada more accessible. This invaluable collection is a must for students in disability studies, sociology, history, social work, and education studies.

Rethinking Normalcy

A Disability Studies Reader

EDITED BY TANYA TITCHKOSKY AND ROD MICHALKO

Rethinking Normalcy introduces undergraduate audiences to the rapidly growing field of disability studies. Strongly interdisciplinary, this volume draws upon many different social and cultural approaches to address disability as a social and political construction. Diverse chapters unite theoretical perspectives and personal accounts to critically analyze notions of disability as a personal tragedy, an abnormality, or an individual matter. Topics addressed in this reader include a review of the discipline, the normalization of suffering, institutionalization, law and policy, education and work, and issues of race, class, gender, sexuality, and nationality.

Dissonant Disabilities

Women with Chronic Illnesses Explore Their Lives

EDITED BY DIANE DRIEDGER AND MICHELLE OWEN

An attempt to stimulate discussion and debate, Dissonant Disabilities emphasizes that analyses of disability must take gender into account. This much-needed collection of original articles invites the reader to examine the key issues in the lives of women with chronic illnesses.

Distinct from books on this topic that adopt a medical or self-help perspective, this collection invites the reader to examine key issues in the lives of women with chronic illnesses, including shame, blame, and power imbalances in family, work, and education. The authors explore how society reacts to women with chronic illnesses and how these women cope with the uncertainty of their bodies in a society that desires certainty. This text continues to be popular for courses in disability studies, women's studies, and sociology of health and gender.

Professional Ethics and Law in Education A Canadian Guidebook

BRUCE MAXWELL, DIANNE GERELUK, AND CHRISTOPHER MARTIN

Designed as a guide for pre-service education students and in-service teachers, Professional Ethics and Law in Education: A Canadian Guidebook provides an accessible and accurate source of information on the ethical and legal frameworks of the teaching profession while encouraging the examination of fundamental issues that underpin key debates in Canadian schooling and education.

Divided into four sections, this guidebook is grounded in the idea that teacher professionalism requires a solid understanding of the ethical and legal expectations that society has of teachers. Written for both the student and the professional, this text is an essential companion to both aspiring and active teachers. It provides clear guidance on how to navigate the complex regulatory framework of contemporary teaching while highlighting the indispensable contribution that individual judgment and shared values make to thoughtful, informed, and well-reasoned decision making in teaching, making it necessary reading for educators in Canada.

Social Justice Education in Canada

Select Perspectives

EDITED BY ALI A. ABDI

This engaging edited collection highlights key discussions around educational inequity and related structures and sub-structures. Featuring a diverse array of contributors, Social Justice Education in Canada balances important knowledge, learning practices, and possibilities emanating from and embedded in anti-racist and anti-oppressive education with instructive, grounding examples. The text confronts the idea of social justice as an abstract concept, discussing suggestions for rethinking educational systems and making changes that will benefit the learning lives of all students. With the aim to critically expand the emerging and increasingly active debates in this important area of educational and social development, this volume strives to collectively deepen our understanding and appreciation for critical social justice education.

Organized into 14 chapters and featuring an epilogue written by Dr. Edward Shizha, the book critically deals with contemporary topical issues in education, including readings on cultural, racial, religious, Indigenous, language, socio-economic, citizenship, disability/ableism, and immigrant/refugee status realities and their interwoven learning and teaching intersections. This text is an essential resource for undergraduate and graduate students of education across Canada.

Ali A. Abdi is a Professor of Social Development Education at the University of British Columbia. His areas of research and teaching include human rights and critical citizenship education, social and cultural foundations of education, anti-colonial education, and epistemic decolonization.

FEATURES

- designed to spark discussions and debates, each chapter closes with discussion questions to encourage critical reflection
- contributors move beyond the theoretical with actionable, practical applications for critical social justice that can be utilized by educators and teacher educators
- intersecting topical diversity is at the forefront of this volume, which features contributors from different backgrounds and communities critically engaging with issues pertinent to social justice and equity in education

Self-Regulation and Inquiry-Based Learning in the Primary Classroom

BRENDA JACOBS

In this unique text, Dr. Brenda Jacobs brings together two important ideas that have become central to learning and development in education, demonstrating the core relationship between self-regulation and inquiry-based learning in primary classrooms.

The author compellingly shows that inquiry-based learning can empower children and is vital to them becoming self-regulated learners. Drawing on real-life classroom examples, the volume outlines four key insights: that children learn self-regulation during inquiry-based learning in the same way they do during play; that teachers can use scaffolding strategies to support this development; that inquiry-based learning promotes the positive emotions essential for the development of social and emotional learning; and, finally, that during inquiry-based learning, children use oral language as a self-regulatory tool. These insights are applied to the four components of emergent curriculum—inquiry design, classroom environment, conversation, and documentation—to show how educators can help children become self-regulated learners. Considering how COVID-19 has exacerbated children’s social, emotional, behavioural, physical, and mental health problems, this timely volume also provides guidance about how to do inquiry-based learning in virtual classrooms.

Concise and practical, Self-Regulation and Inquiry-Based Learning in the Primary Classroom is an invaluable foundational text for students in education and early childhood education and for pre-service and in-service teachers alike.

Dr. Brenda Jacobs is a Professor in the Faculty of Education at Ontario Tech University and is a member of the Ontario College of Teachers and the College of Early Childhood Educators. Brenda has taught elementary school-aged children in Toronto, Vancouver, and Oxford, England. She attends and participates in presentations and workshops held throughout Canada and internationally.

FEATURES

- rich in pedagogical tools, including chapter summaries, engaging reflective questions, and recommended resources
- ideas presented have broad application beyond the primary classroom and can be utilized by educators as a tool to foster reflective practice and strengthen the strategies in their own self-regulation toolbox

Teaching in the Anthropocene Education in the Face of Environmental Crisis

EDITED BY ALYSHA J. FARRELL, CANDY SKYHAR, AND MICHELLE LAM

This new, critical volume presents various perspectives on teaching and teacher education in the face of the global climate crisis, environmental degradation, and social injustice. Teaching in the Anthropocene calls for a reorientation of the aims of teaching so that we might imagine multiple futures in which children, youths, and families can thrive amid a myriad of challenges related to the earth's decreasing habitability.

Referring to the uncertainty of the time in which we live and teach, the term Anthropocene is used to acknowledge anthropogenic contributions to the climate crisis and to consider and reflect on the emotional responses to adverse climate events. The text begins with the editors' discussion of this contested term and then moves on to make the case that we must decentre anthropocentric models in teacher education praxis. Together the authors discuss new theoretical orientations and describe innovative pedagogies that create opportunities for students and teachers to live in greater harmony with the more-than-human world. This incredibly timely volume will be essential to pre- and in-service teachers and teacher educators.

Leadership for Flourishing in Educational Contexts

EDITED BY BENJAMIN KUTSYURUBA, SABRE CHERKOWSKI,
 AND KEITH D. WALKER

Featuring voices from academics, practitioners, school system leaders, school administrators, and graduate students from across Canada and abroad, this unique edited collection offers conceptual discussions and empirical examples of leadership for flourishing in a variety of educational contexts. Leadership for Flourishing in Educational Contexts affirms that by fostering positive leadership, striving for well-being, and encouraging flourishing for all, significant benefits and new potentials will be felt throughout the learning communities. Grounded in theoretical approaches of positive leadership, positive psychology, and positive organizational scholarship, the accounts from K–12, post-secondary, and professional contexts explore the impacts and influences of leadership at all levels of education. Editors and chapter authors describe their research findings and first-hand experiences of supporting educators and school leaders in learning how to grow their agentic role for fostering well-being among all members of the community. The book is divided into three sections: stories of school-level flourishing, stories of personal professional flourishing, and stories of the impacts and influences of positive leadership in various educational contexts.

Engaging and practical, this book encourages readers to reflect on the topics through discussion questions and to apply the learning to their own educational and organizational settings. This positively oriented volume will be invaluable for students of educational leadership, education administration, and organizational studies in education, in North America and beyond.

Dr. Benjamin Kutsyuruba is a Professor of Educational Policy, Leadership, and School Law at Queen's University. Dr. Sabre Cherkowski is a Professor and Director of Graduate Programs in Education at UBC Okanagan. Dr. Keith D. Walker is a Professor of Educational Administration at the College of Education at the University of Saskatchewan.

FEATURES

- chapters include pedagogical features such as concluding thoughts and discussion questions that bridge K–12 and higher education and reflect on education as a whole
- offers an approach to educational leadership that emphasizes the well-being of both educators and students
- features the voices of academics and school leaders from across Canada, the United States, the United Kingdom, and Australia

Equity as Praxis in Early Childhood Education and Care

EDITED BY ZUHRA ABAWI, ARDAVAN EIZADIRAD,
AND RACHEL BERMAN

Equity as Praxis in Early Childhood Education and Care aims to map, deconstruct, and engage with different models of equity as they pertain to the early childhood education landscape in Ontario. Drawing on marginalized narratives of gender; race; Indigeneity; dis/ability and inclusion; and migration, immigration, and displacement, the authors discuss how to advance the field and make it more equitable for children, families, early childhood educators, and all other practitioners. This edited collection outlines the current political climate of early childhood education and care in Ontario through a critical analysis of policies and dominant discourses of equity and inclusion. By prompting readers to reflect on and critique their understandings of children, families, communities, and practices in the field, the authors seek to provide counter-narratives to Eurocentric developmentalist hegemonies and an alternative strength-based approach to critical and transformative praxis.

This vital text encourages rethinking how narratives of equity and inclusion are constructed and what this means for young children and their families in Ontario, as well as throughout Canada. This is an essential resource for students in early childhood education and care, early childhood studies, and education programs.

Decolonizing and Indigenizing Education in Canada

EDITED BY SHEILA COTE-MEEK AND TAIMA MOEKE-PICKERING

This expansive collection explores the complexities of decolonization and indigenization of post-secondary institutions. Seeking to advance critical scholarship on issues including the place of Indigenous epistemologies, knowledges, curriculum, and pedagogy, Decolonizing and Indigenizing Education in Canada aims to build space in the academy for Indigenous peoples and resistance and reconciliation. This 15-chapter collection is built around the two connecting themes of Indigenous epistemologies and decolonizing post-secondary institutions. Aiming to advance and transform the Canadian academy, the authors of this volume discuss strategies for shifting power dynamics and Eurocentric perspectives within higher education. Written by academics from across Canada, the text reflects the critical importance of the discourse on truth and reconciliation in educational contexts and how these discourses are viewed in institutions across the country. This expansive resource is essential to students and scholars focusing on Indigenous knowledges, education and pedagogies, and curriculum studies.

Dr. Sheila Cote-Meek is Anishinaabe from the Teme-Augama Anishnabai and is the Vice-President, Equity, People and Culture at York University. She is the former Associate Vice-President, Academic and Indigenous Programs at Laurentian University.

Dr. Taima Moeke-Pickering is a Maori of the Ngati Pukeko and Tuhoe tribes. She is a Full Professor in the School of Indigenous Relations at Laurentian University, where she teaches courses on Indigenous research methodologies, international Indigenous issues, and United Nations and Indigenous social work.

FEATURES

- includes discussion questions and further reading lists and offers practical examples of how one can engage in decolonization work within the academy
- features Canadian authors in varying academic positions and provides content specific to the Canadian education system

The Role of an Education Assistant Supporting Inclusion

EDITED BY MARY HARBER AND ASHA RAO

The Role of an Education Assistant offers a handbook for students learning about the growing and complex role of education assistants. This includes how to support academic, social, inclusive, and independent learning environments in schools and collaborate with parents and teachers in the planning and evaluation of student progress. Divided into four sections, this text addresses education assistant professional standards, mental health and wellness, culture and diversity, and the challenge of supporting all students in the classroom. Professionals and scholars contribute research, anecdotes, practical insights from the field, and discussion questions to encourage student reflection and professional preparation. Offering practical guidance for interprofessional collaboration and inclusive education, this valuable text will prepare students in education studies, education assistant and educational support, and early childhood education programs for rewarding careers in the industry.

Mary Harber is faculty in the Education Assistant and Community Support Program at Camosun College. She has been a social worker and educator for 30 years, supporting individuals, families, and communities. Asha Rao is program lead and faculty in the Education Assistant and Community Support Program and faculty in the Community, Family, and Child Studies Department at Camosun College. She has been an educator locally and internationally for over 16 years.

FEATURES

- begins with an introduction from editors who have decades of combined professional experience in child and youth social work, as educators in inclusive environments, and as university and college instructors
- provides a Canada-wide perspective from both accomplished scholars and experienced professionals
- covers the large scope of student learning stages, from early years, through adolescence, to adulthood
- highlights the changing and broadening expectations of education assistants and offers relevant guidance on how to meet diverse needs in modern classrooms

Teaching Global Citizenship

A Canadian Perspective

EDITED BY LLOYD KORNELSEN, GERALDINE BALZER,
AND KAREN M. MAGRO

Teaching Global Citizenship brings together perspectives from former and current teachers from across Canada to tackle the unique challenges surrounding educating for global awareness. Reflecting on the educator's experience, each chapter engages with critical questions surrounding teaching global citizenship, such as how to help students understand and navigate the tension at the heart of global citizenship between universalism and pluralism and how to do so without frightening, regressing, mythicizing, imposing, or colonizing. Based on narrative inquiry, the contributors convey their insights through stories from their classroom experiences, which take place in diverse educational settings across Canada, in both rural and urban areas, and in public and private schools.

Lloyd Kornelsen is an Associate Professor of Education and the Director of the Human Rights Program at the University of Winnipeg. Geraldine Balzer is an Associate Professor of Curriculum Studies in the College of Education at the University of Saskatchewan. Karen M. Magro is a Professor of Literacy Education, Adult Learning, and Applied Psychology in the Faculty of Education at the University of Winnipeg.

Teaching about Gender Diversity

Teacher-Tested Lesson Plans for K-12 Classrooms

EDITED BY SUSAN W. WOOLLEY AND LEE AIRTON

Teaching about Gender Diversity is an edited collection of teacher-tested interdisciplinary lesson plans that provides K–12 teachers with the tools to implement gender-inclusive practices in their curriculum and talk to their students about gender and sex. Divided into three sections dedicated to the elementary, middle, and secondary grade levels, the book provides lessons for a variety of subject areas, including English language arts, STEM (science, technology, engineering, and mathematics), and health and physical education. Written by teachers for teachers, more than 30 contributors from across North America provide their varied perspectives on the timely issue of teaching about gender in the classroom. This is an essential resource for students taking education courses on gender, sexuality, diversity and equity, curriculum design, and professional practice.

Susan W. Woolley is an Associate Professor of Educational Studies and Director of the LGBTQ Studies Program at Colgate University, New York. Lee Airton is an Assistant Professor of Gender and Sexuality Studies in Education at Queen's University, Ontario.

The Compassionate Educator

Understanding Social Issues and the Ethics of Care in Canadian Schools

EDITED BY ALLYSON JULE

The Compassionate Educator explores a wide range of student complexities, including matters such as mental health, Indigenous education, queer education, youth radicalization and extremism, disability, religious practice, ESL, and refugee student support. This edited collection equips teachers with the foundation needed to build a classroom that unpacks the social fabric of individual student and classroom populations from a place of deep understanding and compassion.

Using a student-centred methodology, readers learn how to navigate difficult situations in the classroom with empathy and consider the distinct lived experiences that inform students' actions in school. Encouraging critical reflection and an understanding of diversity, this insightful and applicable resource is ideal for students in teacher education programs and for practising educators across Canada.

Allyson Jule is a Professor of Education and the Dean of Education, Community, and Human Development at the University of the Fraser Valley. She is the recipient of several awards, including Trinity Western University's Davis Distinguished Teaching Award (2011).

Autism Spectrum Disorder in the Canadian Context

An Introduction

KIMBERLY MAICH, SHARON C. PENNEY, KELLY ALVES,
AND CARMEN HALL

With a unique focus on Canada-wide practices and research, this text offers a comprehensive introduction to autism spectrum disorder (ASD). Covering the clinical, educational, and community perspectives of ASD, the authors highlight how educators, direct support professionals, and communities at large can support people with ASD across their lifespan: from early years, to school years, to adulthood. Providing an overview of ASD and discussing evidence-based interventions, newer sensory theories and frameworks, the experiences of parents and families, and critical issues including media, sexuality, peer relationships, and immigration, this text is a vital asset for ASD programs and resource centres as well as courses on ASD in behavioural science, education, and health studies programs.

Kimberly Maich is a Professor in the Faculty of Education at Memorial University. Sharon C. Penney is an Associate Professor in the Faculty of Education at Memorial University. Kelly Alves is a Professor in the Behavioural Science Diploma Program at Seneca College. Carmen Hall is a Professor and Coordinator of the Autism and Behavioural Science Graduate Certificate at Fanshawe College.

Leadership in Education

The Power of Generative Dialogue

PAMELA ADAMS, CARMEN MOMBOURQUETTE,
AND DAVID TOWNSEND

The authors of Leadership in Education suggest that sustained and purposeful growth starts with provocation: an emotional incitement that causes reflection, a shift in thinking, and a variation in the course of action.

This resource shows educators how to adopt a “leader-as-provocateur” mindset by demonstrating highly effective ways of questioning that affirm mutual respect, build trust, stimulate reflection, strengthen partnerships, and use inquiry to guide action. A quick and compelling read, this textbook is the ideal resource for graduate students in education and leadership programs across North America, the United Kingdom, and Australia.

Pamela Adams is an Associate Professor in the Faculty of Education at the University of Lethbridge. Carmen Mombourquette is an Associate Professor in the Faculty of Education at the University of Lethbridge. David Townsend is a retired Associate Professor, formerly of the Faculty of Education at the University of Lethbridge.

Transcultural Literacies

Re-Visioning Relationships in Teaching and Learning

EDITED BY KAREN M. MAGRO AND MICHELLE A. HONEYFORD

Canada is more diverse than ever before, and the application of transcultural literacies in Canadian classrooms is needed for the successful growth of students and teachers alike. In this edited volume, world-renowned educators offer unique perspectives on the impact of race, culture, and identity in the classroom. With an interdisciplinary approach, this book investigates not only how teachers can design learning spaces to accommodate diverse students, but also how they can build literacy programs to complement and further develop the varied strengths, skills, and experiences of those students. Examining the roles of both teachers and students in transcultural language learning, this text will benefit students in teacher education programs and in graduate-level education studies that focus on language and literacy, diversity, and global citizenship.

Karen M. Magro is a Professor of Literacy Education, Adult Learning, and Applied Psychology in the Faculty of Education at the University of Winnipeg. Michelle A. Honeyford is an Associate Professor of Language and Literacy in the Faculty of Education at the University of Manitoba.

Éloge pour la deuxième édition :
 « Cette 2^{ème} édition possède les qualités de la première, mais ce qui la rend encore plus intéressante est l'ajout de nouvelles sections reflétant la réalité d'aujourd'hui: rédaction inclusive, traduction épïcène, ainsi qu'une section sur le sous-titrage de films et de séries. La traduction : un pont de départ demeure donc un incontournable dans l'enseignement de la traduction. »

—LINDA BRUNEAU-JOLLY, DEPARTMENT OF FRENCH, SIMON FRASER UNIVERSITY

La traduction

Un pont de départ, deuxième édition

KERRY LAPPIN-FORTIN

Cette deuxième édition augmentée de La traduction : un pont de départ propose une introduction intéressante et vivante à la traduction anglais-français et français-anglais. Organisée en trois parties, elle présente les notions de base linguistiques pertinentes, les procédés, les types et les défis de la traduction et un chapitre sur les différences structurelles des deux langues. Les mises à jour de cette édition comprennent des informations supplémentaires sur des sujets liés aux sociolectes, aux sous-titres et au langage inclusif. Dans ce manuel « hybride », le contenu théorique s'accompagne d'exercices pratiques à la fois utiles et divertissants, dont du nouveau matériel secondaire.

Destiné principalement aux étudiants universitaires de niveau intermédiaire-avancé en français langue seconde, elle convient bien à un premier ou à un deuxième cours de traduction, voire à un cours de stylistique comparée.

Récemment retraitée de l'Université St. Jerome's, fédérée avec l'Université de Waterloo, Kerry Lappin-Fortin se spécialise en linguistique et en traduction et s'intéresse également à l'acquisition d'une langue seconde. La professeure Lappin-Fortin a de nombreuses années d'expérience en enseignement des études françaises et, en 2009, elle a reçu deux prix pour l'excellence en enseignement, celui de l'Université de Waterloo (Distinguished Teacher Award) et celui de l'alliance des étudiants de premier cycle de l'Ontario.

CARACTÉRISTIQUES

- conçu pour l'apprentissage autonome et de groupe grâce à de nombreux exercices pratiques
- comprend un exercice de synthèse, une section sur la grammaire comparative et un glossaire, ainsi qu'un corrigé en ligne pour les enseignants
- ce manuel hybride permet aux étudiants de répondre aux exercices dans les espaces alloués

Éloge pour cette titre :

“In contrast to most translation textbooks that present their subject through dry categories... Woodward tackles the art of literary translation through an engaging thematic lens... A series of linguistic exercises and sample translations successfully exploit the finer points of literary translation. A most welcome addition that will surely draw student interest.”

—LAUREN PINZKA, SENIOR LECTURER OF FRENCH, YALE UNIVERSITY

Exercices d'apprentissage pour la traduction

SERVANNE WOODWARD

Incarnant une approche holistique de la traduction française, Exercices d'apprentissage pour la traduction combine des extraits et des exercices conçus pour aider les étudiants à apprendre à traduire des textes du français vers l'anglais et de l'anglais vers le français. Cette compilation permet d'exercer et de développer progressivement les capacités d'analyse et les processus de réflexion nécessaires à la traduction professionnelle.

En mettant l'accent sur des processus de réflexion minutieux et sur la compréhension et la maîtrise progressives de l'étudiant, ce manuel insuffle variété et flexibilité dans ses enseignements. Exercices d'apprentissage pour la traduction maintient l'intérêt des étudiants grâce à un contenu varié provenant de différentes régions du monde francophone, de livres pour enfants et d'exemples littéraires, ainsi que d'autres récits informatifs, tandis qu'un large éventail de leçons permet aux instructeurs d'utiliser les exercices dans un ordre qui correspond à leurs objectifs pédagogiques.

Structuré comme un manuel d'exercices qui guide les étudiants à travers le processus de traduction textuelle et le présente comme une série de possibilités et de choix facilement contrôlables, cet ouvrage contemporain, novateur et accessible est précieux pour les cours d'introduction à la traduction française à l'ère des applications de traduction automatique.

Servanne Woodward enseigne le français à l'Université Western (UWO) depuis 1994. Le Département d'Études Françaises lui confie les cours sur les sujets spéciaux en traduction depuis 2011. Avec Leo Pei, elle vient d'écrire un article situant les traductions de Shakespeare par Voltaire contre les théories de Le Tourneur et Turgot, entre autres.

CARACTÉRISTIQUES

- structuré sous forme de cahier d'exercices pour encourager l'implication et la réflexion des étudiants
- contient une grande variété d'extraits et d'exercices provenant de l'ensemble du monde francophone pour une expérience d'apprentissage holistique et complète
- comprend des traductions littéraires professionnelles ainsi que des traductions automatiques
- les suppléments de l'instructeur comprennent un guide de réponses de l'enseignant et une banque de questions d'examens

Des ressources actualisées pour les enseignants sont disponibles

Éloge pour la deuxième édition :
 « Après la réception favorable de la première édition de cet excellent manuel, la deuxième édition arrive à point nommé. Le français, ça me plaît est une ressource complète pour l'enseignement et l'apprentissage de la langue française dans sa diversité culturelle. »

—FRENAND LÉGER, DÉPARTEMENT DE FRANÇAIS, CARLETON UNIVERSITY

Le Français, ça me plaît deuxième édition

PAULETTE COLLET ET ROSANNA FURGIEUELE

La deuxième édition du manuel, de niveau intermédiaire, Le Français, ça me plaît offre une revue immersive de la grammaire française et présente une sélection de lectures d'actualité, de textes rédigés par les auteures et des extraits d'ouvrages littéraires datant de différentes époques et provenant de diverses régions du monde francophone. Ces textes, classés thématiquement, sont variés, à la fois au point de vue du sujet, du genre et du style. Cet éventail permettra aux étudiant(e)s d'acquérir un vocabulaire riche et varié dans des domaines éclectiques. À la suite de chaque lecture, une liste d'expressions, traduites en anglais, facilite la compréhension du texte.

Les règles de grammaire sont présentées d'une manière claire et concise et sont illustrées par des exemples tirés des lectures.

Offrant des suggestions d'activités interactives, un glossaire détaillé, du matériel audio, des exercices phonétiques, ainsi qu'un tableau de conjugaisons, ce manuel complet est la ressource idéale pour les cours de langue de niveau intermédiaire.

Le corrigé et des exercices supplémentaires sont à la disposition de l'enseignant(e).

Paulette Collet est professeure émérite de l'Université de Toronto et continue à enseigner le français. Elle a écrit des manuels et des ouvrages de critique littéraire. Rosanna Furgieuele est professeure au Collège universitaire Glendon, Université York et est l'auteure de plusieurs manuels de langue française.

CARACTÉRISTIQUES

- une sélection révisée de lectures comportant des extraits et des adaptations d'œuvres de grands écrivains français tels que Molière, Victor Hugo, Marcel Proust et Albert Camus
- des exercices mis à jour dans chaque chapitre pour tester la maîtrise de la grammaire, la compréhension de la lecture et l'acquisition de vocabulaire, ainsi que de nouvelles activités interactives
- de nouvelles listes de vocabulaire à la fin de chaque lecture pour aider les apprenants à comprendre et à maîtriser de nouvelles expressions sans avoir besoin de recourir à un dictionnaire

La France

histoire, société, culture

EDWARD OUSSÉLIN

Premier ouvrage du genre, La France : histoire, société, culture s'efforce d'encourager les étudiants à adopter une perspective comparative et transculturelle qui leur permettra de réfléchir à leurs propres cultures tout en découvrant l'histoire, la société et la culture de la France.

Edward Ousselin guide les étudiants à travers des sujets tels que les systèmes gouvernementaux, administratifs et juridiques de la Ve République ; le rôle de l'Union européenne ; le système éducatif français ; la diversité religieuse et ethnique en France ; la femme, le(s) féminisme(s) et les minorités sexuelles ; le système de sécurité sociale ; la culture littéraire et l'argot ; et l'évolution des valeurs socioculturelles.

Soulignant les similitudes et les différences socioculturelles entre la France, le Canada et les États-Unis, l'ouvrage présente des passages et des extraits informatifs tirés de textes authentiques dotés d'une réelle pertinence historique et culturelle, ainsi que des informations contextuelles sur des lieux, des événements et des personnages importants, intégrés tout au long des chapitres. Conçu pour les étudiants en fin de 1er cycle ou aux cycles supérieurs au Canada et aux États-Unis, ce texte sera une ressource essentielle pour les cours sur la société et la culture françaises.

Edward Ousselin est professeur de français à la Western Washington University et rédacteur en chef de The French Review.

CARACTÉRISTIQUES

- encourage les étudiants à adopter une perspective comparative et transculturelle
- comprend des fonctionnalités pédagogiques telles que des liens vers des ressources en ligne, des questions d'activité pour stimuler les discussions en classe et des quiz à choix multiples
- des suppléments contenant les réponses aux quiz sont disponibles pour les instructeurs

—ISABELLE LEMEE, LAKEHEAD UNIVERSITY

En super forme

SIMONE RENAUD ET JEAN-LUC DESALVO

Ce manuel très attendu des auteurs d'En bonne forme, Simone Renaud et Jean-Luc Desalvo, propose un guide concis et sans fioritures de l'essentiel des règles de la grammaire française. En super forme fournit aux étudiants un guide efficace pour développer et pratiquer les compétences de lecture, d'écriture, d'écoute et d'expression de la langue française.

Une section préliminaire en anglais présente le matériel à titre d'introduction et permet aux étudiants de se familiariser avec la structure des chapitres à venir, qui sont tous constitués de listes de vocabulaire, de leçons de grammaire essentielles et supplémentaires avec exercices, d'exercices de compréhension de lecture composés d'extraits de littérature contemporaine ou de compositions originales et d'exercices de traduction.

Rédigé en français pour une expérience d'apprentissage immersive, ce texte efficace est conçu comme un guide complet pour les étudiants du secondaire et du collégial qui apprennent la langue française à un niveau intermédiaire et peut également servir de guide de référence pratique en dehors de la salle de classe.

Simone Renaud est une ancienne professeure d'études françaises à l'Université de San José State. Jean-Luc Desalvo est professeur d'études françaises à l'Université de San José State.

CARACTÉRISTIQUES

- une méthodologie pratique et complète de l'apprentissage de la grammaire française destinée aux étudiants de niveau intermédiaire de la langue
- une approche comparative des similitudes et des différences entre le français et l'anglais avec de nombreux exemples d'idiomes et de dictons familiers
- des exercices de lecture tirés de l'actualité, de la littérature contemporaine et du matériel original composé par les auteurs
- comprend de nombreuses annexes utiles pour une consultation rapide et facile

Lire et écrire

La composition par le texte

SADIA ZOUBIR-SHAW

Unique dans son approche de l'étude de la langue française, Lire et écrire : La composition par le texte explore diverses techniques et stratégies d'écriture dans le but de développer et de renforcer les compétences de compréhension et d'écriture en français. Comblant le fossé entre le processus et la pratique, ce texte complet utilise une analyse structurelle et textuelle approfondie pour sonder les relations entre le contenu, la langue, le style et la structure. Chaque chapitre commence par l'exploration de modèles littéraires français et francophones afin de stimuler la réflexion critique et est suivi d'exercices d'apprentissage tels que des exercices syntaxiques et sémantiques, des activités d'écriture qui permettent de pratiquer la composition et l'édition, l'étude des expressions idiomatiques et des méthodes d'identification des faux amis. Lire et écrire est une ressource inestimable pour les cours de français de deuxième cycle dans les universités du Canada et des États-Unis.

Sadia Zoubir-Shaw est professeure agrégée de linguistique à l'Université du Kentucky.

Stylistique différentielle, textologie et traduction

deuxième édition

EGAN VALENTINE ET MARIE-CHRISTINE AUBIN

Stylistique différentielle, textologie et traduction propose une étude comparée systématisée des caractéristiques stylistiques et culturelles de l'anglais et du français, étude qui se situe généralement à l'étape initiale de la formation en traduction. Partant d'une perspective textuelle, cette nouvelle édition comporte l'étude de divers types de textes, des présentations théoriques enrichies ainsi que de nombreux exercices bidirectionnels. À la fin de chaque chapitre se trouve une bibliographie se rapportant aux notions étudiées.

Egan Valentine est professeur et directeur au département de langues modernes et de traduction à l'Université du Québec à Trois-Rivières.

Marie-Christine Aubin est traductrice agrégée et professeure de traduction au Collège Glendon de l'Université York à Toronto.

Structure du français moderne

Introduction à l'analyse linguistique, quatrième édition

PIERRE LÉON ET PARTH BHATT

Le but de cet ouvrage est d'initier à l'analyse linguistique en dégageant la structure du français moderne. Cela, de la manière la plus claire possible, sans jargon inutile. Notre analyse est ouverte à tous les courants et non enfermée dans une école contraignante. L'étude de la langue nous mène à des implications stylistiques, esthétiques et sociales, d'où des incursions dans les variations individuelles, dialectales et idéologiques. Les variations du français de France, comme celles du Canada, occupent ici une large place.

Des exercices à la fin de chaque chapitre offrent le moyen d'appliquer les connaissances acquises. Du bon temps en perspective pour les curieux et les amoureux de la langue!

Le regretté Pierre Léon était un professeur d'études françaises de l'Université de Toronto. Il a écrit de nombreux articles et livres en linguistique, la phonétique et phonostylistique. Il a également écrit des contes, des nouvelles, des romans et des poèmes. Parth Bhatt est professeur de français langue seconde à l'Université du Toronto.

Apprendre à traduire

Cahier d'exercices pour l'apprentissage de la traduction français-anglais anglais-français, troisième édition

VALENTINE WATSON RODGER

Apprendre à traduire répondra beaucoup mieux aux besoins actuels des étudiants et à ceux de leurs professeurs. Le lexique du manuel sera utile à l'étudiant, pas seulement dans la dissertation et dans d'autres cours, mais aussi dans la conversation courante.

On a remplacé ou modifié toutes les phrases à traduire qui étaient démodées ; on a également apporté aux introductions explicatives de certains exercices des modifications destinées à les rendre plus complètes, claires et efficaces.

Après avoir fait ses études à Oxford, Valentine Watson Rodger a été professeur de traduction et de langue et littérature françaises à l'université de Western Ontario et au College Huron de 1965 à 2004.

Invitation à écrire, Volumes 1 et 2 deuxième édition

CATHERINE BLACK ET LOUISE CHAPUT

Invitation à écrire est un outil d'apprentissage qui tient compte des recherches effectuées dans le domaine de l'écriture chez les apprenants en FLE (Français Langue Étrangère). Pour cela, il met l'accent sur le travail en groupe, la révision et l'apprentissage en étapes qui permettent de démystifier l'écrit dans une langue étrangère. Les annexes ajoutés décrivent les concepts de base et reprennent les points importants des divers chapitres.

La deuxième édition d'Invitation à écrire comprend deux manuels, qui ont été conçus pour les niveaux intermédiaire et avancé. Le premier volume est plutôt destiné aux étudiants de niveau B1–B2, alors que le deuxième volume vise plutôt les étudiants de niveau C1–C2 du CECR (Cadre européen commun de référence).

Catherine Black est professeure agrégée au département de Français de l'Université Simon Fraser. Linguiste et didacticienne de formation, elle se spécialise en pédagogie du FLE. Louise Chaput, titulaire d'un doctorat en linguistique française de l'Université Western Ontario, fait présentement un stage postdoctoral au département d'Information et de Communication de l'Université Laval.

CARACTÉRISTIQUES

- deux volumes au lieu d'un
- de nouveaux chapitres
- chaque manuel est accompagné d'un corrigé pour les professeurs

Éloge pour cette titre :

« Invitation à écrire présente les étapes du processus de l'écriture du français langue seconde d'une manière cohérente et claire, en mettant l'accent sur le travail en groupe, la révision, et l'observation détaillée de textes authentiques variés et captivants. »

Queerly Canadian

An Introductory Reader in Sexuality Studies, Second Edition

EDITED BY SCOTT RAYTER AND LAINE HALPERN ZISMAN

In the second edition of this remarkable and comprehensive anthology, many of Canada's leading sexuality studies scholars examine the fundamental role that sexuality has played—and continues to play—in the building of our nation and in our national narratives, myths, and anxieties about Canadian identity.

Thoroughly updated, this new edition features 26 new chapters on topics including Indigenous kinship, Blackness, masculinity, disability, queer resistance, and sex education. Covering both historical and contemporary perspectives on nation and community, law and criminal justice, organizing and activism, health and medicine, education, marriage and family, sport, and popular culture and representation, the essays also take a strong intersectional approach, integrating analyses of race, class, and gender. This interdisciplinary collection is essential for the Canadian sexuality studies classroom and for anyone interested in the mythologies and realities of queer life in Canada.

Scott Rayter is an Associate Professor, Teaching Stream, in both in the Mark S. Bonham Centre for Sexual Diversity Studies and the Department of English at the University of Toronto. Laine Halpern Zisman is a post-doctoral research fellow in the Department of Geography and Tourism Studies at Brock University. She received her PhD from the University of Toronto in Theatre and Sexual Diversity Studies. Laine previously edited Women and Popular Culture in Canada under the name Laine Zisman Newman.

FEATURES

- 60 percent new and expanded content, with 26 new chapters
- thoroughly updated to reflect a strong emphasis on the diversity of queer experiences and identities in Canada
- each chapter includes a brief introduction, written by the author, that provides helpful context about their work for both students and teachers

Gender, Sex, and Tech!

An Intersectional Feminist Guide

EDITED BY JENNIFER JILL FELLOWS AND LISA SMITH

In this timely collection, gender, sex, and technology are explored through an intersectional and interdisciplinary lens. Gender, Sex, and Tech! provides insight into the ways that technology affects, and is affected by, cultural perceptions of gender and sex. Through an examination of a range of past and present issues, the text highlights our relationships to technology and illustrates how gendered relations are shaped and transformed through social and technological innovations.

Contributors bring to the fore feminist, decolonizing, and anti-racist methods to examine our everyday uses of technology, from the mundane to the surreal to the playful to the devastating. Original research and scholarship is skillfully grounded in real-world scenarios like revenge pornography, gender bias in artificial intelligence, menstrual tracking, online dating, and the COVID-19 pandemic, inviting students to take a closer look at technological transformations and their impact on gendered lived experience and to consider how the benefits of technology are inequitably shared within society.

Centring Canadian scholars and Canadian perspectives without losing sight of the broader global connection, Gender, Sex, and Tech! is bursting with timely and of-the-moment content, making this collection a must-read for courses focused on gender and technology.

Jennifer Jill Fellows is a Faculty Member in the Philosophy Department at Douglas College. Her current research interests are in social epistemology and the metaphysics of personhood. She particularly focuses on trust, expertise, and marginalization in science and technology studies. Lisa Smith is a Faculty Member in the Department of Sociology at Douglas College. Her research expertise lies in sexual and reproductive health, gender-based violence and the post-secondary context, and public and community-engaged sociology.

FEATURES

- prepares and encourages students to continue exploring the relationship between gender, sex, and tech well beyond the text
- features a wealth of pedagogical supports, including questions for critical thought, invitations to go deeper, and further readings and websites of interest
- showcases a range of established and up-and-coming Canadian scholars presenting original research and scholarship

TransNarratives

Scholarly and Creative Works on Transgender Experience

EDITED BY KRISTI CARTER AND JAMES BRUNTON

Filling a gap in literature and fulfilling the need for trans-focused work, TransNarratives is an interdisciplinary collection featuring narratives of transgender experiences, providing a sourcebook of a range of trans perspectives, writing styles, and trans methodological fields of applicability. The works included transcend disciplinary boundaries in the pursuit of academic knowledge and creativity, actively deconstructing binaries wherever they begin to appear, whether with regard to gender, race, ability, or sexuality, or to the binary divisions that can sometimes separate academic and creative production.

Calling attention to transgender writers, this unique and timely text showcases a wide variety of material, including scholarship from multi- and interdisciplinary transgender perspectives, poetry and fiction that foregrounds trans experience, and first-person transgender narratives. The essays, poems, and stories cover a range of topics relevant to transgender, gender non-conforming, and non-binary experiences across time, geographic location, and cultures. An important addition to the field, this groundbreaking text will serve as an essential collection of works for students and researchers in transgender studies, queer studies, and gender studies.

Kristi Carter (she/her/hers) is the author of poetry collections Aria Viscera, Daughter Shaman Sings Blood Anthem, Red and Vast, and Cosmovore. She holds a PhD in English-Creative Writing, Poetry with a specialization in Women's and Gender Studies from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and an MFA in Poetry from Oklahoma State University.

James Brunton (he/him/his) is a poet and scholar of critical theory and film studies. He is the author of the poetry collection Opera on TV and the co-author of The Future Is a Faint Song. James holds an MA in Visual Studies from the University of California-Irvine and a PhD in English from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, where he teaches film studies and critical theory.

FEATURES

- accessible, thematically wide-ranging, and stylistically diverse writings, including scholarship from multi- and interdisciplinary transgender perspectives
- multi-generational perspectives and non-able-bodied subjectivities
- uniquely formatted to support a dialogue between creative and scholarly work

Trans Youth Stories

An Intergenerational Dialogue after the “Trans Tipping Point”

EDITED BY DR. LINDSAY HERRIOT AND KATE FRY

The first of its kind, Trans Youth Stories is a thematically organized collection of narratives, fiction, nonfiction, letters, poetry, graphics/comics, and visual pieces created by 26 Canadian transgender youth between the ages of 10 and 18. Arranged in sections on childhood, families, bodies, everyday life, schooling, mental health, and acceptance, each section concludes with a response written by a Canadian scholar in transgender studies in conversation with the youth. These responses contextualize the youth pieces with recent scholarship from the field and equip readers with concrete actions for research, activism, and professional practice.

Offering a unique and truthful depiction of young trans life and a holistic view of what it might be like to be a young trans person today, this groundbreaking volume will serve as an essential sourcebook for both students and teachers of gender and sexuality studies, trans studies, child and youth studies, counselling, and education.

Dr. Lindsay Herriot is an Adjunct Professor and Sessional Instructor in the Faculty of Education and in the School of Child and Youth Care, an Associate Fellow at the Centre for the Study of Religion and Society, and a member of the Steering Committee in Transgender Studies at the University of Victoria. Kate Fry is a writer and editor who recently completed a BA with Honours in English Literature from the University of Victoria.

Gendered Bodies and Public Scrutiny Women's Stories of Staring, Strangers, and Fierce Resistance

VICTORIA KANNEN

In this unique approach to the field of body studies, author, scholar, and educator Victoria Kannen explores what it means to exist in a body that is constantly on display and subjected to public scrutiny. Kannen examines the interplay of many ways our bodies express identity, such as gender, race, body size, sexuality, disability, body modification, and age, and how public scrutiny of those expressions can impact our public and private selves.

Intertwining personal narratives of self-identified “odd and awed” women with theoretical chapters that help to elucidate the role of social power, this volume tackles the stares, comments, and questions that are directed towards bodies in public space through original research, personal narratives, and artistic expression. As readers encounter the narratives and images throughout the book, they will be supported by scholarly chapters on embodiment, identity, resistance, and power to help analyze, reflect on, and critically engage with the content.

Through stories, theory, and art, this timely new resource will engage students and scholars of women's and gender studies, sociology, critical disability studies, and body studies.

Victoria Kannen writes and teaches on the subjects of identity, embodiments, education, and popular culture. She is the co-editor of The Spaces and Places of Canadian Popular Culture (Canadian Scholars, 2019). Her work has also been published in such journals as the Journal of Gender Studies, Culture, Theory and Critique, and Teaching in Higher Education. Victoria holds a PhD from the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education at the University of Toronto.

FEATURES

- offers a unique understanding of interpretation and what it means to have a body that causes curiosity, discrimination, and lifelong interactions
- accessible and engaging for students and scholars, as well as those outside of academia
- provides creative and non-traditional opportunities for critical engagement with various embodiments

Women and Popular Culture in Canada

EDITED BY LAINE HALPERN ZISMAN

The first book of its kind, this volume explores women and non-binary people in popular culture in Canada, with a focus on intersectional analysis of settler colonialism, race, white privilege, ability, and queer representations and experiences in diverse media. The chapters include discussions of film, television, video games, music, and performance, as well as political events, journalism, social media, fandom, and activism. Throughout this collection, readers are encouraged to think carefully about the role women play in the cultural landscape in Canada as active viewers, creators, and participants.

Covering a wide range of topics, from historical perspectives to recent events, media, and technologies, this collection acts as an introduction, an archive, and a continuing commitment to lifting the voices and stories of women and popular culture in Canada. This book is a must-read for gender studies and media studies courses that focus on popular culture, Canadian feminism, and Canadian media.

Laine Halpern Zisman (previously Zisman Newman) is a post-doctoral research fellow in the Department of Geography and Tourism Studies at Brock University. She received her PhD from the University of Toronto in Theatre and Sexual Diversity Studies. Laine is also the co-editor of the second edition of Queerly Canadian.

FEATURES

- includes questions for critical thought that stimulate discussion
- focuses on intersections of race, gender, ability, and sexuality

The Black Girlhood Studies Collection

EDITED BY ARIA S. HALLIDAY

This groundbreaking text is one of the first collections to exclusively explore, develop, and evaluate theories of Black girls and Black girlhoods. This contributed volume brings together emerging and established scholars from North America to discuss what Black girlhood means historically and in the 21st century and how concepts of race, ethnicity, gender, sexuality, class, religion, and nationality inform or affect identities of Black girls beyond school or urban settings.

Divided into two sections, special topics covered include Black feminism, intersectionality, pleasure and erotic agency, media and fan activism, construction of self, leadership, social change, toxic masculinity, and self-care.

The Black Girlhood Studies Collection is a vital resource that will evoke meaningful discussion and change for students in African studies, Black studies, child and youth studies, gender and women's studies, media studies, and sociology courses globally.

Aria S. Halliday is an Assistant Professor of Africana Feminisms in Women's Studies at the University of New Hampshire. Her research spans the fields of American studies; African American studies; women's, gender, and sexuality studies; and cultural studies.

Gender and Women's Studies Critical Terrain, Second Edition

EDITED BY MARGARET HOBBS AND CARLA RICE

Gender and Women's Studies provides an essential introduction to key issues, approaches, and concerns of the field. This comprehensive anthology celebrates a diversity of influential feminist thought on a broad range of topics using analyses sensitive to the intersections of gender, race, class, ability, age, and sexuality. Drawing on contemporary and classic pieces, the carefully selected and edited readings centre Indigenous, racialized, disabled, and queer voices. With over 60 percent new content, this thoroughly updated second edition contains infographics and original activist artwork; a new section on gender, migration, and citizenship; and new chapters on sex work as labour, the politics of veiling, trans and queer identities, Indigenous sovereignty, decolonization, masculinity, online activism, and contemporary social justice movements including Black Lives Matter and Idle No More. Concerned with the past, present, and future of gender identity, gendered representations, feminism, and activism, this book is an indispensable resource for students in gender and women's studies classrooms across Canada and the United States.

Margaret Hobbs is a Professor Emeritus and former Chair of Gender and Women's Studies at Trent University. Carla Rice is a Full Professor, Canada Research Chair, and Founding Director of the Re-Vision Centre for Art and Social Justice at the University of Guelph.

Feminist Food Studies Intersectional Perspectives

EDITED BY BARBARA PARKER, JENNIFER BRADY,
ELAINE POWER, AND SUSAN BELYEA

This expansive collection enriches the field of food studies with a feminist intersectional perspective, addressing the impacts that race, ethnicity, class, and nationality have on nutritional customs, habits, and perspectives. International scholars explore three areas in feminist food studies: the socio-cultural, the corporeal, and the material. The chapters intersect as they examine how food is linked to hegemony, identity, and tradition, while contributors offer diverse perspectives that stem from biology, museum studies, economics, popular culture, and history. With a unique multidisciplinary and global perspective, this vital resource is well suited to undergraduate students of food studies, nutrition, gender studies, sociology, and anthropology.

Working Women in Canada An Intersectional Approach

EDITED BY LESLIE NICHOLS

In this edited collection, Leslie Nichols weaves together the contributions of accomplished and diverse scholars to offer an expansive and critical analysis of women's work in Canada. Students will use an intersectional approach to explore issues of gender, class, race, immigrant status, disability, sexual orientation, Indigeneity, age, and ethnicity in relation to employment. Drawing from case studies and extensive research, the text's 18 chapters consider Canadian industries across a broad spectrum, including political, academic, sport, sex trade, retail, and entrepreneurial work.

Working Women in Canada is a relevant and in-depth look into the past, present, and future of women's responsibilities and professions in Canada. Undergraduate and graduate students in gender studies, labour studies, and sociology courses will benefit from this thorough and intersectional approach to the study of women's labour.

Leslie Nichols, PhD, is a public policy researcher and social justice advocate. She investigates the marginalization of women, immigrants, youth, and other groups in the Canadian workforce and the social, political, and economic forces that create inequality for those populations.

Women's Voices from the Margins

Diaries from Kibera, Kenya

ELIZABETH SWART

Women's Voices from the Margins explores the coping strategies, agency, and resilience of women living in Kibera, Kenya—one of Africa's largest slums. Based on a multi-year research project in which the author analyzed the diaries of 20 young women from Kibera, this thought-provoking book describes the women's lives, the realities of gender-based violence, and their responses and coping strategies. Drawing on both qualitative journal accounts and quantitative surveys, Elizabeth Swart reveals the agency and strength of these women, who create opportunities for themselves and their children despite the violence and extreme poverty that are a daily actuality of life in Kibera.

Unsettling Activisms

Critical Interventions on Aging, Gender, and Social Change

EDITED BY MAY CHAZAN, MELISSA BALDWIN, AND PATRICIA EVANS

Drawing on diverse lived experiences, including contributions from leading feminist and age studies scholars, this volume investigates how powerful, interlocking forms of difference such as gender, class, race, ability, ethnicity, sexuality, and Indigeneity shape the meaning and experience of both aging and activism. This vital resource consists of eight analytic chapters and eight vibrant reflective pieces, alongside poignant poetry and photography. This collection is best suited for undergraduate and graduate courses in gender studies, activist and social movement studies, and age and aging studies.

Women in the "Promised Land"

Essays in African Canadian History

EDITED BY NINA REID-MARONEY, BOULOU EBANDA DE B'ÉRI, AND WANDA THOMAS BERNARD

This collection places African Canadian women's lived experiences, identities, and histories at the centre of Canada's past and encourages readers to interrogate the idea of Canada as a "Promised Land." Spanning slavery in the 1830s through to the activism of the late 20th century, this interdisciplinary text draws on existing research from cultural studies, literary studies, communications, and visual culture to reframe familiar figures in African Canadian women's history, such as feminist Mary Ann Shadd and civil rights activist Viola Desmond.

Trans Activism in Canada

A Reader

EDITED BY DAN IRVING AND RUPERT RAJ

The first of its kind, this anthology brings together activists and allies to examine the various strategies and forms of resistance needed to transform oppression into opportunity for change. Centring the voices and experiences of trans-identified people as experts on their own lives and agents of change, Trans Activism in Canada opens up a dialogue between scholars and community members in an effort to improve the lives of sex- and gender-variant people. Reflecting upon the challenges trans communities face and offering insight into achieving institutional reform, the themes addressed range from poverty and isolation to health care and best practices.

Within the Confines

Women and the Law in Canada

EDITED BY JENNIFER M. KILTY

Leading voices in the field challenge the narrative that women and racialized minorities have achieved fundamental social equality in liberal democracies since the 1960s. The chapters in this volume critically examine topics such as colonialism, poverty, sex work, and reproductive rights. A valuable resource for a wide range of fields, including gender studies, criminology, sociology, social anthropology, political science, social work, and legal history, this multidisciplinary volume offers a fresh perspective on the disturbingly predictable judgments that criminalized women face in Canada.

Politics and Sex

Exploring the Connections between Gender, Sexuality, and the State

EDNA KEEBLE

Focusing on the particular challenges faced by women, Edna Keeble interrogates the relationship between the desire to control female sexuality and gender inequality in a broader political context. This introductory text brings together a diverse collection of issues including body image, body politics, the veiling of women, female genital mutilation or cutting, rape and sexual violence, pornography, and prostitution, and will encourage informed conversations about gender and sexuality in the political science classroom.

Becoming Girl Collective Biography and the Production of Girlhood

EDITED BY MARNINA GONICK
AND SUSANNE GANNON

Becoming Girl interrogates the everyday of girlhood through the collaborative feminist methodology of collective biography. This scholarly collection demonstrates how memories can be used to investigate the ways in which girlhood is culturally, historically, and socially constructed. Bringing together international and interdisciplinary girlhood scholars, this volume provides an innovative, inclusive, and collaborative method for understanding the relationship between the individual and the collective.

Canadian Men and Masculinities Historical and Contemporary Perspectives

EDITED BY CHRISTOPHER J. GREIG
AND WAYNE J. MARTINO

Canadian Men and Masculinities is a provocative and interdisciplinary work that examines the production and performance of manhood, boyhood, and embodied masculinity across Canadian history and culture. Adopting multiple perspectives, this collection considers how the construction of gender intersects with race, social class, sexuality, bodily abilities, and other categories of identity and provides an exciting read for students of masculinity studies.

More than a Labour of Love Three Generations of Women's Work in the Home

MEG LUXTON

Based on participant observation and in-depth interviews, this book describes the work women do in their homes, caring for children and partners, and maintaining the house. It shows how their lives are shaped by domestic responsibilities and challenges the ways in which their work is neither recognized nor valued. Arguing that the work they do is socially necessary and central to the economy, it calls for a transformation of current social and economic relations.

Introduction to Determinants of First Nations, Inuit, and Métis Peoples' Health in Canada

EDITED BY MARGO GREENWOOD, SARAH DE LEEUW, ROBERTA STOUT, ROSEANN LARSTONE, AND JULIE SUTHERLAND

This critical new volume to the field of health studies offers an introductory overview of the determinants of health for Indigenous peoples in Canada while cultivating an understanding of the presence of coloniality in health care and how it determines First Nations, Inuit, and Métis peoples' health and well-being.

The text is broken down into the What, Where, Who, and How, and each part contains a comprehensive and holistic approach to understanding the many factors, historical and contemporary, that are significant in shaping the life and health of Indigenous Peoples in Canada and beyond. Comprising wisdoms from First Nations, Inuit, and Métis leaders, knowledge holders, artists, activists, clinicians, health researchers, students, and youth, this book offers practical insights and applied knowledge about combating coloniality and transforming health care systems in Canada.

Compiled by experienced editors associated with the National Collaborating Centre for Indigenous Health, Introduction to Determinants of First Nations, Inuit, and Métis Peoples' Health in Canada draws together the work and writings of primarily Indigenous authors, including academics, community leaders, and health care practitioners. This accessible and timely introduction is a vital undergraduate resource and invaluable for introducing key concepts and ideas to students new to the field.

NEW EDITION

A Concise Introduction to Mental Health in Canada

Third Edition

EDITED BY EMILY JENKINS, ALLIE SLEMON, AND DAN BILSKER
WITH ELLIOT M. GOLDNER

This remarkable third edition offers a unique contribution to mental health literature. It covers the full spectrum of issues related to mental health and illness in Canada, incorporating insights from a diversity of physical and social science perspectives, to expand the way readers think about mental health.

Interdisciplinary and reader-friendly, this engaging volume introduces students to a wide range of topics, including substance use, children and youth, trauma, culture, gender and sexuality, diagnosis and treatment, and population approaches. Updates to this edition comprise new insights on topics such as the opioid crisis, legalization of cannabis, changes to provincial mental health acts, and an expansion on previously included Indigenous mental health content.

As an introductory text, A Concise Introduction to Mental Health in Canada provides a superb foundation for students of medicine, nursing, social work, psychology, and public health.

Communication for Kinesiology A Practical Guide

JASON HOLT

The first text of its kind, Communication for Kinesiology serves as a communication primer for undergraduate students in kinesiology and sport studies, preparing them for successful written and oral scholarly communication within the field.

Assuming a contextual approach to communication, the text focuses on formal writing and presentations in scholarly and professional settings. The author provides a wealth of pedagogical features, including chapter overviews outlining the topics to be discussed, brief recap lists at the end of each chapter, examples, definitions, tips, and techniques, as well as an end-of-text glossary. Structured with both instructors and students in mind, the modular chapters allow for fluid and flexible application and contain practical and theoretically grounded advice to encourage students to hone their writing and presentation skills by changing how they think about the process and engaging with the rules and conventions of the field.

Written to address the needs of undergraduate kinesiology students in North America, Communication for Kinesiology is an invaluable introductory resource for the classroom and beyond.

Jason Holt is a Professor of Kinesiology at Acadia University, where he teaches communication and the philosophy of sport and leisure. His books in kinesiology are (with M. Ramsay) The Philosophy of Mixed Martial Arts: Squaring the Octagon (2021), Kinetic Beauty: The Philosophical Aesthetics of Sport (2019), Philosophy of Sport: Core Readings (2013), and (with L. E. Holt and T. W. Pelham) Flexibility: A Concise Guide (2008). He has published over 50 essays in a variety of fields and journals.

FEATURES

- comprises modular chapters that allow for fluid and flexible application tailored to the needs of the classroom
- accessible and engaging for students new to expressing themselves in academic settings
- offers advice that is contextualized to make sense of scholarly conventions and techniques within the field

Research Literacy for Health and Community Practice

Second Edition

SONYA L. JAKUBEC AND BARBARA J. ASTLE

In its second edition, Research Literacy for Health and Community Practice introduces students to fundamental research concepts that will enable them to think critically about research and recognize effective methods for understanding and utilizing research for practice. Thoroughly updated, this new edition features content on Indigenous knowledge and research, including contributions by two Indigenous scholars, and offers additional examples of qualitative and quantitative designs, updated content on literature reviews, and new exercises and examples throughout to broaden the scope to different care providers in health, community services, and other related fields.

Rather than outlining methods for conducting research, this textbook teaches basic skills for engaging with research literature, including how to frame and organize knowledge, interpret and evaluate evidence using qualitative and quantitative approaches, distinguish between research and other forms of information, and use this evidence in practice settings. Offering a wealth of exercises, recommended readings, online resources, and learning activities, this textbook satisfies the need for practical beginner-level resources in research literacy courses across health studies disciplines.

Sonya L. Jakubec is a Professor in the School of Nursing and Midwifery at Mount Royal University. Barbara J. Astle is a Professor in the School of Nursing and the Director of the Master of Science in Nursing Program at Trinity Western University.

FEATURES

- written in an accessible and user-friendly style that offers a straightforward understanding of essential research concepts
- pedagogical features include chapter outlines and learning objectives, review and reflect sections, further resources and links, a glossary, and two appendices with practice exam questions and learning activities
- comes equipped with updated instructor supplements featuring PowerPoint slides, critical thinking questions, exam questions, and a new guide to using Google Scholar

Choosing Well

Case Studies in Bioethics

RACHEL HALIBURTON AND REBECCA VENDETTI

Offering a compendium of case studies in bioethics, Choosing Well demonstrates real ethical dilemmas that can occur in health care settings. Instructors can draw upon the scenarios in this concise and highly effective resource to encourage analysis, critique, discussion, and debate of hot-button ethical issues.

The authors present a diverse selection of complex case studies in bioethics to stimulate in-depth analysis on topics ranging from distributive justice, research ethics, reproductive technologies, abortion, and death and dying to the health care professional–patient relationship and ethics in the workplace. The text also features case studies that move through time to reflect real-life decision making and cases that present multiple perspectives to illustrate the challenges that can arise from disputes in health care settings. Utilizing the DECIDED strategy for analyzing case studies, instructors can guide students through the steps needed to work through a wide variety of ethical dilemmas and encourage reflection on their own ethical assumptions.

Accessible, practical, and highly engaging, Choosing Well offers a helpful and interesting way to explore central issues in contemporary bioethics, making it an indispensable resource for instructors and students of bioethics, biomedical ethics, and health care ethics.

Rachel Haliburton recently retired from the Department of Philosophy at the University of Sudbury and is also the co-author of Bioethics in Canada. Rebecca Vendetti is a chaplain at St. Mildred's-Lightbourn School in Oakville and recently received a PhD in Religious Studies from McMaster University.

FEATURES

- includes a brief introduction to ethics, the role of case studies, and some of the most important bioethical principles, as well as a glossary of key terms
- features Canadian-focused content and themes reflecting the challenges of modern health care settings
- provides a framework for case study analysis, along with sample analyses of three full case studies using the DECIDED approach

Bioethics in Canada

A Philosophical Introduction, Third Edition

CAROL COLLIER AND RACHEL HALIBURTON

Now in its third edition, Bioethics in Canada: A Philosophical Introduction offers a comprehensive overview of the philosophical, historical, and medical concepts shaping contemporary debates on biomedical issues. The text opens with an introduction to moral theory and bioethical principles, followed by application of these theories and principles to real-world ethical conflicts involving abortion, distributive justice, genetics, reproductive technology, and other vital topics. A landmark case opens each chapter, illuminating the many issues involved in these debates as well as the philosophical assumptions that shape them.

Thoroughly updated to reflect recent political, medical, and cultural changes, this third edition features new sections on Medical Assistance in Dying (MAiD), the moral philosophy of liberalism in bioethics, the Mad movement, and CRISPR and gene editing, and expanded content on mental health, rural and remote communities, and codes of conduct and codes of ethics.

Accessibly written with newly added case studies in the health care workplace, this text is an insightful resource for courses in the disciplines of philosophy, health studies, medicine, and nursing, providing a strong ethical foundation in an ever-changing field.

Carol Collier, formerly an Associate Professor of Philosophy at the University of Sudbury–Laurentian University, is retired and living in Ottawa. Rachel Haliburton recently retired from the Department of Philosophy at the University of Sudbury.

FEATURES

- Canadian-focused content, case study scenarios, questions for critical thought, and recommended website lists in each chapter
- interesting legal cases and relevant current events that highlight the real-world application of bioethical theories and arguments
- instructor supplements available, including a test bank

The Politics of Dental Care in Canada

CARLOS QUIÑONEZ

Filling a gap in the health policy literature, author and dental public health specialist Dr. Carlos Quiñonez explores the complexities surrounding Canada’s dental care system and policies, including how they came to be, their consequences, and what they mean for oral health and access to dental care.

The Politics of Dental Care in Canada seeks to answer a long-standing policy question in Canadian health care: Why is dental care excluded from Canada’s national system of health insurance, Medicare? The text presents a history of dentistry in Canada from the late 19th century onward, outlining how dentistry traversed a developing Canadian welfare state. Dr. Quiñonez explores factors that led to dentistry’s separation from larger movements in health care policy, including moral questions on individual versus social responsibility over health, scientific advances in the field, and prevailing economic uncertainty.

Opening with a series introduction by Dr. Dennis Raphael, this vital text offers an extensive overview on how the politics of dental care contributes to inequalities and inequities in oral health. From discussing scientific and public health advances in dentistry to looking at the general nature of oral health care in Canada from an international perspective, this text serves as an important addition to the field of health policy and a foundational resource for courses in dentistry, health studies, and comparative health policy.

Dr. Carlos Quiñonez is a researcher, dental public health specialist, and Professor and Director of the Specialty Training Program in Dental Public Health at the Faculty of Dentistry, University of Toronto. His main focus is on applied policy research, with an emphasis on equity and the history, politics, and economics of dentistry.

FEATURES

- comprehensively discusses the current state of Canadian dental care policy, the history and factors that led to the policy, and the resulting outcomes and inequalities
- presents the latest available information on the epidemiology of oral diseases and conditions; the connection between oral health and systemic health; and the organization, financing, and delivery of oral health care in Canada and internationally

The Politics of Health in the Canadian Welfare State

TOBA BRYANT AND DENNIS RAPHAEL

The first book to discuss the Canadian welfare state through a health-focused lens, The Politics of Health in the Canadian Welfare State argues that the nature of Canada's liberal welfare state shapes the health care system, the social determinants of health, and the health of all Canadians. Documenting decades of work on the social determinants of health, authors Toba Bryant and Dennis Raphael explore topics such as power and influence in Canadian society, socially and economically marginalized populations, and approaches to promoting health. Each chapter examines different aspects of the links between public policy, health, and the welfare state, investigating how broader societal structures and processes of the country's economic and political systems shape living and working conditions and, inevitably, the overall health of Canadians.

Contextualizing the history and status of Canadian health and health care systems with Canada's welfare state, this concise and timely text is well suited as a supplementary resource for health studies, sociology of health, and nursing courses in universities across Canada.

Toba Bryant is an Associate Professor in the Faculty of Health Sciences at Ontario Tech University and author of Health Policy in Canada and Staying Alive. Dennis Raphael is a Professor of Health Policy and Management at York University, whose areas of interest include topics in public policy, poverty, and social determinants of health.

FEATURES

- provides a comprehensive overview of how the form of the welfare state acts as an important determinant of health
- includes international comparative data to demonstrate where Canada stands in comparison to other welfare states
- offers opportunities for further exploration of various topics through lists of further readings and websites

Promoting the Health of Older Adults The Canadian Experience

EDITED BY IRVING ROOTMAN, PEGGY EDWARDS, MÉLANIE LEVASSEUR,
AND FRANCES GRUNBERG

Taking a unique look at health promotion and aging in Canada, this edited collection uses the action framework in the Ottawa Charter for Health Promotion to explore the factors and issues related to the health of older adults. The book is organized around the five action areas for health promotion: building healthy public policy, creating supportive environments, strengthening community action, developing personal skills, and reorienting health and social services.

Adhering to the holistic approach that health in older age involves physical, mental, emotional, and social well-being, this comprehensive collection covers a wide range of interventions that are designed to benefit and protect the aging population's health, quality of life, rights, and dignity, while building intergenerational solidarity and collaboration. Readers will learn about aging from a health promotion perspective; the context, environment, and issues related to older adults in Canada; and best practices in health promotion, public health, and the care of older adults. Promoting the Health of Older Adults is an invaluable resource for both graduate and undergraduate students in gerontology, health promotion, nursing, social work, and related fields.

Irving Rootman is an Adjunct Professor in the School of Public Health and Social Policy at the University of Victoria and an Executive Member of Health Promotion Canada. Peggy Edwards is a health promotion consultant, policy analyst, human rights activist, researcher, and author on healthy aging. Mélanie Levasseur is an occupational therapist, a researcher at the Research Centre on Aging, and a Full Professor and Director of Research in the School of Rehabilitation at Université de Sherbrooke. Frances Grunberg is a social work practitioner, educator, and advocate. She has spent the last 20 years as faculty in the Social Service Worker Program at Langara College, where she developed the Gerontology program.

FEATURES

- considers the implications of the COVID-19 pandemic for health promotion and aging
- provides an up-to-date profile of older adults in Canada and current/future trends in aging and health, including the use of new technologies and policies and practices in health promotion, public health, and other disciplines
- includes a wealth of pedagogical features, such as learning objectives, critical thinking questions, a glossary, and online supplementary materials

Canadian Perspectives on Advanced Practice Nursing Second Edition

EDITED BY ERIC STAPLES, ROGER PILON, AND RUTH A. HANNON

This expanded second edition of Canadian Perspectives on Advanced Practice Nursing uses a case-study approach to understanding advanced practice nursing roles and competencies and their impact across all levels of the health care system. Focusing on the roles of clinical nurse specialists and nurse practitioners, this volume explores the continued integration of advanced practice nursing in relation to social, political, educational, regulatory, legislative, and economic environments that have shaped them. The contributors articulate the historical development and evolution of advanced practice nursing in Canada, from rural and remote outpost beginnings to the present, and propose a vision for the future within the Canadian health care system.

Eric Staples is an Independent Nursing Practice Consultant. For many years, he was an Assistant Professor and Regional Coordinator for the Ontario Primary Health Care Nurse Practitioner Program in the School of Nursing at McMaster University. Roger Pilon is an Associate Professor and Director at the School of Nursing at Laurentian University and a Primary Health Care Nurse Practitioner. Ruth A. Hannon is a Teaching Professor in the School of Nursing at McMaster University.

Poverty in Canada Implications for Health and Quality of Life, Third Edition

DENNIS RAPHAEL

Now in its third edition, this comprehensive text provides a unique interdisciplinary perspective on poverty and its impact on the health and quality of life of Canadians. Considering a broad range of topics, Dennis Raphael covers the central issues of defining and measuring poverty; situational and societal causes of poverty; health and social implications for individuals, communities, and society as a whole; and the means of reducing poverty's incidence and responding to its effects. This volume will foster greater insight into the repercussions of poverty throughout society, encouraging readers to reflect on provocative questions at the end of each chapter.

Well updated to reflect current statistics and recent public policy changes, this new edition puts emphasis on the lived experiences of poverty. Poverty in Canada considers a range of issues that will be of great value to a variety of audiences, including those studying or working in health studies, social work, sociology, and equity studies.

Dennis Raphael is a Professor of Health Policy and Management at York University, whose areas of interest include topics in public policy, poverty, and social determinants of health.

Holistic Healing

Theories, Practices, and Social Change

EDITED BY PETER A. DUNN

A practical and insightful guide, Holistic Healing investigates the practices, theories, research, and history of holistic healing as it relates to a wide range of health care and human service professionals. This text offers a uniquely comparative and integrated understanding of both ancient and modern Indigenous, Eastern, and Western traditional practices, including bodywork, expressive arts, energy medicine, eco-psychology, transpersonal psychology, naturopathy, homeopathy, Ayurveda, Traditional Chinese Medicine, and Indigenous healing practices. Practitioners and scholars in health, nutrition, psychology, and social work contribute to research that focuses on individual, organizational, national, and global holistic intervention applications.

This collection is a timely and practical resource for students of undergraduate health, social work, sociology, holistic healing, and psychology programs and is also a great resource for professional practitioners.

Peter A. Dunn is a retired Associate Professor in the Faculty of Social Work at Wilfrid Laurier University who taught for over 30 years in promoting social change and holistic healing.

Debating Health Care Ethics Canadian Contexts, Second Edition

PATRICK FINDLER, DORAN SMOLKIN, AND WARREN BOURGEOIS

Now in its second edition, Debating Health Care Ethics explores contemporary moral challenges in health care, providing students with the tools to understand and critically evaluate arguments in the field and develop their own arguments on moral problems in health care. The textbook's first three chapters explore the nature of arguments and ethical theories, while the remaining chapters discuss moral problems in health care through case studies and dramas featuring scenarios involving patients, family members, and health care providers. This new edition includes gender-inclusive dramas, an expanded discussion of feminist ethics, a case study on euthanasia, and an update on fetal consciousness that informs the debate on abortion. Emphasizing critical issues in health care from a Canadian perspective, this essential textbook will benefit students in philosophy, nursing, and health studies.

Patrick Findler is a Professor in the Department of Philosophy at Kwantlen Polytechnic University who teaches ethics, metaphysics, and the philosophy of sport. Doran Smolkin is a Professor in the Department of Philosophy at Kwantlen Polytechnic University who specializes in teaching ethics. Warren Bourgeois is a Professor Emeritus from the Department of Philosophy at Kwantlen Polytechnic University.

Under-Served Health Determinants of Indigenous, Inner-City, and Migrant Populations in Canada

EDITED BY AKSHAYA NEIL ARYA AND THOMAS PIGGOTT

Under-Served brings together the perspectives of academics, front-line health care providers, and policy-makers to examine the historical, political, and social factors that influence the health and health care of under-served populations in Canada, focusing particularly on Indigenous, inner-city, and migrant populations. This vital text broadens the traditional determinants of health—the social, economic, environmental, and behavioural elements—to include factors like family and community, government policies, mental health and addiction, homelessness and housing, racism, youth, and LGBTQ identity. This edited collection will engage students in health studies, nursing, and social work in crucial topics such as health promotion, social inequality, and community health.

Akshaya Neil Arya is an Assistant Clinical Professor in Family Medicine at McMaster University and Adjunct Professor in Environment and Resource Studies at the University of Waterloo. Thomas Piggott is a family doctor and is finishing his training in public health and preventive medicine at McMaster University.

Introduction to Health Informatics A Canadian Perspective

CHRISTO EL MORR

The first of its kind, this engaging textbook unpacks health informatics from a uniquely Canadian perspective. With a bottom-up approach, author Christo El Morr identifies how health informatics influences and affects a range of Canadian health care stakeholders, including patients, doctors, nurses, managers, clinicians, and governments. Presented in a clear and concise way, section one equips students with an overview of health informatics building blocks. Section two details major health informatics systems, and section three explores challenges with privacy, confidentiality, security, and emerging trends such as big data, gamification, and wearable technologies. Packed with key terms, reflection activities, quizzes, and assignments, this comprehensive introductory textbook is an invaluable read for undergraduate students, educators, and practitioners in the health informatics, health management, health policy, or global health fields.

Christo El Morr is an Associate Professor of Health Informatics, the Health Informatics Certificate Coordinator, and the former Undergraduate Program Director at the School of Health Policy and Management at York University.

Determinants of Indigenous Peoples' Health Beyond the Social, Second Edition

EDITED BY MARGO GREENWOOD, SARAH DE LEEUW,
AND NICOLE MARIE LINDSAY

Now in its second edition, this collection explores how health determinants such as colonialism, gender, culture, early childhood development, the environment, geography, HIV/AIDS, medicine, and policy impact the health status of Indigenous peoples in Canada. Grounded in expert voices of First Nations, Inuit, and Métis writers, this updated edition reflects the significant social and political events that dominated headlines over the last two years, such as the protests at Standing Rock, North Dakota, the US national election of 2016, the Indigenous youth suicide epidemic, and the inquiry into murdered and missing Indigenous women and girls in Canada. This revolutionary book is appropriate for undergraduate and graduate students enrolled in courses on health, public and population health, community health sciences, medicine, nursing, and social work.

Margo Greenwood is a Professor of Education and First Nations Studies at the University of Northern British Columbia. Sarah de Leeuw is an award-winning creative writer and Canada Research Chair in Humanities and Health Inequities with the University of Northern British Columbia's Northern Medical Program in the Faculty of Medicine. Nicole Marie Lindsay is a Doctoral Candidate in the School of Communication at Simon Fraser University.

Social Determinants of Health

*Canadian Perspectives,
Third Edition*

EDITED BY DENNIS RAPHAEL

In the current environment of deepening class and income inequality, it is essential to understand the socio-economic conditions that shape the health of individuals and communities. Now in its third edition, Dennis Raphael's Social Determinants of Health offers a comprehensive discussion of the primary factors that influence the health of Canada's population.

This seminal text on the social determinants of health contains contributions from top academics and high-profile experts from across the country. Taking a public policy approach, the authors in this edited collection critically analyze the structural inequalities embedded in our society and the socio-economic factors that affect health, including income, education, employment, housing, food security, gender, and race.

Dennis Raphael is a Professor of Health Policy and Management at York University, whose areas of interest include topics in public policy, poverty, and social determinants of health.

Mad Matters

A Critical Reader in Canadian Mad Studies

EDITED BY BRENDA A. LEFRANÇOIS, ROBERT MENZIES, AND GEOFFREY REAUME

In 1981, Toronto activist Mel Starkman wrote, “An important new movement is sweeping through the western world.... The ‘mad,’ the oppressed, the ex-inmates of society’s asylums are coming together and speaking for themselves.”

Mad Matters is the first Canadian book to bring together the writings of this vital movement, which has grown explosively in the years since. With contributions from scholars in numerous disciplines, as well as activists and psychiatric survivors, it presents diverse critical voices that convey the lived experiences of the psychiatrized and challenges dominant understandings of “mental illness.” The connections between mad activism and other liberation struggles are stressed throughout, making the book a major contribution to the literature on human rights and anti-oppression.

Brenda A. LeFrançois is an Associate Professor of Social Work at Memorial University of Newfoundland. Robert Menzies is a Professor of Sociology at Simon Fraser University. Geoffrey Reaume is an Associate Professor of Critical Disability Studies at York University.

Fundamentals of the Psychiatric Mental Status Examination

A Workbook

CHERYL WEBSTER POLLARD

In this highly accessible guide, Cheryl Webster Pollard introduces students and emerging practitioners to the skills and knowledge necessary to conduct a comprehensive examination. Fundamentals of the Psychiatric Mental Status Examination is an interactive workbook containing case studies, activities, and study questions to guide students through the process of administering the examination and documenting the information.

Each chapter explores a distinct aspect of the assessment, allowing readers to focus on key areas of interest. Students will learn how to assess for potential psychopathology, psychosis, and suicidal or homicidal ideation, and will examine unique cultural and age considerations that may affect individual experiences.

Cheryl Webster Pollard is an Associate Dean and Assistant Professor in the Bachelor of Science in Nursing Program at MacEwan University. She has held positions as a mental health clinical nurse specialist and nurse researcher, and has also held progressive leadership positions within community and tertiary care settings.

An Introduction to Global Health

Third Edition

MICHAEL SEEAR AND OBIDIMMA EZEIKA

The revised and thoroughly updated third edition of An Introduction to Global Health is constructed around three essential questions: “Why is population health so poor in developing countries?”; “What is the scope of the issue?”; “How can it be remediated?” By considering aspects of the topic that are often neglected—including poverty, malnutrition, wars, governance, and humanitarian disasters—Seear and Ezeika provide a comprehensive overview of the various determinants of global health and its inevitable companion, the modern aid industry.

New to the third edition is an updated discussion on global health in relation to the Sustainable Development Goals, as well as the addition of chapter summaries, critical thinking questions, and recommended readings.

Michael Seear is a Staff Physician in the Department of Respiratory/Intensive Care at the Children’s Hospital in Vancouver. Obidimma Ezeika is an Assistant Professor, Teaching Stream, in the Interdisciplinary Centre for Health and Society at the University of Toronto Scarborough and in the Dalla Lana School of Public Health at the University of Toronto.

Strong Helpers' Teachings

The Value of Indigenous Knowledges in the Helping Professions, Third Edition

CYNDY BASKIN

The thoroughly updated third edition of Strong Helpers' Teachings skillfully illustrates the importance of Indigenous knowledges in the human services. Making space for the voices of many Indigenous and non-Indigenous scholars, practitioners, and service users, Cyndy Baskin's text models possible pathways toward relationship building and allyship.

With practical examples and case studies, Baskin places Indigenous perspectives at the centre of the social work disciplines and covers topics such as spirituality, research, justice, and healing. Robust updates include new chapters on decolonization and reconciliation, as well as expanded content on holistic healing implementation, skill building, land-based practice, and child welfare.

With concise theoretical content, illustrative practical applications, rich pedagogical features, and a focus on centring Indigenous worldviews, knowledge, and helping practices, this text is foundational for educators, practitioners, and students of human services, social work, child and youth care, and more.

Cyndy Baskin is an Associate Professor in the School of Social Work at Toronto Metropolitan University.

FEATURES

- centres Indigenous knowledge for social work practice

Indigenous Knowledge Systems and Research Methodologies Local Solutions and Global Opportunities

EDITED BY ELIZABETH SUMIDA HUAMAN AND NATHAN D. MARTIN

Bringing together researchers from geographically, culturally, and linguistically diverse regions, Indigenous Knowledge Systems and Research Methodologies offers practical guidance and lessons learned from research projects in and with Indigenous communities around the world. This edited volume explores issues of power, representation, participation, and accountability in studies involving Indigenous peoples and draws on contributors' reflections of their own varied experiences conducting collaborative research in distinct yet related fields. Anchoring the book are several key aims: exploring decolonizing and decolonial methodological paradigms, honouring Indigenous knowledge systems, and growing interdisciplinary collaboration toward Indigenous self-determination.

This collection is a hopeful contribution to Indigenous communities, institutions, scholarship, and practice, highlighting challenges and ideas from Indigenous researchers who are doing the work of moving forward Indigenous research methodologies. Throughout, authors share critical stories regarding what it means to do Indigenous research and to become an Indigenous researcher today. Authors discuss themes essential to study design—including ethics, positionality, data analysis, and dissemination—that reveal how they resist, negotiate, and transform research using multiple epistemologies. Including chapter learning objectives and reflection questions, this text is a vital resource for students and anyone interested in developing a relationship with Indigenous research methods.

Elizabeth Sumida Huaman (Wanka/Quechua) is an Associate Professor in Comparative and International Educational Development at the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities.

Nathan D. Martin is an Associate Professor of Justice and Social Inquiry in the School of Social Transformation at Arizona State University.

Indigenous Food Systems Concepts, Cases, and Conversations

EDITED BY PRISCILLA SETTEE AND SHAILESH SHUKLA

Unlike any other resource on the market, this textbook explores a diverse array of Indigenous food systems from across Canada, including Anishinaabeg, Asatiwisipe, Cree, Métis, Migmag, and Tsartlip. Seeking solutions to food insecurity and well-being for current and future generations, Indigenous and non-Indigenous food practitioners and scholars document the voices and experiences of community members encountered in their research, thus promoting an understanding of the barriers and challenges to Indigenous food systems and presenting ways used to reclaim cultural identity and food sovereignty. Offering in-depth case studies and critical conversations, Indigenous Food Systems reinforces the importance of the revitalization of Indigenous food knowledges for the health and well-being of Indigenous and Canadian populations.

This unique collection is a critical resource for students studying food security and food sovereignty in Indigenous studies, public health, anthropology, and social sciences as well as a useful reader for policy-makers, researchers, and community practitioners.

Research and Reconciliation

Unsettling Ways of Knowing through Indigenous Relationships

EDITED BY SHAWN WILSON, ANDREA V. BREEN, AND LINDSAY DUPRÉ

In this edited collection, leading scholars seek to disrupt Eurocentric research methods by introducing students, professors, administrators, and practitioners to frameworks of Indigenous research methods through a lens of reconciliation. The foundation of this collection is rooted in each contributor's unique conception of reconciliation, which extends beyond the parameters of Canada's Truth and Reconciliation Commission to include a broader, more global approach to reconciliation. Encouraging active, participatory approaches to research, Research and Reconciliation includes a range of tools, resources, and examples, presented through a variety of creative forms that challenge linear ways of thinking and embrace Indigenous ways of knowing and seeing.

Indigenous Research

Theories, Practices, and Relationships

EDITED BY DEBORAH MCGREGOR, JEAN-PAUL RESTOULE, AND ROCHELLE JOHNSTON

Indigenous research is an important and burgeoning field of study. With the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's call for the Indigenization of higher education and growing interest within academic institutions, scholars are exploring research methodologies that are centred in or emerge from Indigenous worldviews, epistemologies, and ontology. Contributors share their personal experiences of conducting Indigenous research within the academy in collaboration with their communities and with guidance from Elders and other traditional knowledge keepers. Indigenous Research is an essential read for students in Indigenous studies programs, as well as for those studying research methodologies in education, sociology, anthropology, and history.

Bobbi Lee Indian Rebel

LEE MARACLE

Lee Maracle's Bobbi Lee Indian Rebel tells the narrative of an Indigenous woman raised in North America who finds her strength despite the forces that challenge and oppress her. Grippingly honest, Lee's autobiographical exploration of postcolonial tensions in Toronto circa 1960–1980 sheds light on the existing racist and sexist sentiments affecting Indigenous women. Reflective of the struggles Indigenous communities face today, this book continues to hold a place within contemporary Indigenous and women's studies classrooms.

This updated and revitalized edition features a preface by Lee Maracle and cover art by Coast Salish artist Susan Point.

*The late Lee Maracle was a Professor of Aboriginal Studies at the University of Toronto and an award-winning author and poet. She received a "Writer of the Year" award from Circle Craft, a North American Native writers' circle, and the JT Stewart Award for her body of work. Ravensong—A Novel

LEE MARACLE

Set along the Pacific Northwest Coast in the 1950s, Ravensong tells the story of an urban Native community devastated by an influenza epidemic. Stacey, a 17-year-old Native girl, struggles with the clash between white society's values and her family's traditional ways, knowing that her future lies somewhere in between. Celia, her sister, has visions from the past, while Raven warns of an impending catastrophe before the two cultures reconcile. In this passionate story about a young woman's quest for answers, author Lee Maracle speaks unflinchingly of the gulf between two cultures: a gulf that Raven says must be bridged. Ravensong is a moving drama that includes elements of prophecy, mythology, cultural critique, and humour. Featuring a preface by Lee Maracle and cover art by Métis artist Christi Belcourt, this revitalized edition is ideal for use in literature and gender and women's studies programs.

Iskwewak Kah' Ki Yaw Ni Wahkomakanak
Neither Indian Princesses nor Easy Squaws,
Second Edition

JANICE ACOOSE

Iskwewak Kah' Ki Yaw Ni Wahkomakanak is a foundational work of literary and cultural criticism. Deconstructing stereotypical images of the “Indian princess” and “easy squaw,” Janice Acoose reflects on the racism and sexism inherent to the colonial, historical, and contemporary representations of Indigenous women in Euro-Canadian literature and culture. Interweaving personal narrative and photographs with literary criticism, Acoose highlights influential Indigenous women writers who have made space for themselves in the literary field and who continue to challenge cultural stereotypes with stories of their own. This revised and thoroughly updated second edition, which also addresses the current crisis of missing and murdered Indigenous women and girls in Canada, remains an invaluable resource for students and instructors of Indigenous studies, women’s studies, and literature.

The late Janice Acoose held a PhD from the University of Saskatchewan and was a Sessional Lecturer with the Northern Teacher Education Program, an activist-educator, and an internationally recognized Indigenous literary critic, writer, researcher, and consultant. Her roots stemmed from the Sakimay First Nation and the Marival Métis community.

A Recognition of Being
Reconstructing Native Womanhood, Second Edition

KIM ANDERSON

A Recognition of Being is an inspiring work that explores Indigenous womanhood, highlighting both the painful legacy of colonialism and the vital potential of self-definition. Beginning with a look at the positions of women in traditional Indigenous societies and their status after colonization, Kim Anderson shows how Indigenous women have since resisted imposed roles and hetero-patriarchy, reclaimed their traditions, and reconstructed a powerful Native womanhood. Drawing from interviews with 40 Indigenous women from across Canada, this revised second edition covers recent literature on Indigenous feminism and two-spirited theory. With a foreword by Maria Campbell and updated closing dialogue with Bonita Lawrence, this groundbreaking text is an ideal resource for courses in women and gender studies and Indigenous studies, as well as for anyone committed to the process of decolonization.

Kim Anderson is an Associate Professor in the Department of Indigenous Studies at Wilfrid Laurier University. Anderson is a long-standing advocate for Indigenous women and families and is regularly involved in community-based research and teaching in this area.

The First Nations of Ontario

Social and Historical Transitions

EDWARD J. HEDICAN

As John Steckley writes in his foreword, this unique text provides “something that has been missing from the literature for too long”—the first comprehensive overview of the histories, cultures, and socio-economic conditions of the First Nations of Ontario, the province/territory with the highest Indigenous population in Canada. Situated within the larger context of Canadian Indigenous issues, anthropologist Edward J. Hedicán provides an accessible introduction to the complex and diverse histories of the First Nations of Ontario from early prehistoric times to contemporary day. With an annotated list of online resources, a glossary of important terms, and an extensive appendix providing information on every First Nation in Ontario, this text is an invaluable resource both for students in Indigenous studies and anthropology as well as for anyone interested in the rich culture and heritage of the First Nations of Ontario.

Edward J. Hedicán is a Professor in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at the University of Guelph. He is widely considered one of today's foremost Canadian anthropologists.

Sivumut—Towards the Future Together

Inuit Women Educational Leaders in Nunavut and Nunavik

EDITED BY FIONA WALTON AND DARLENE O'LEARY

This unique collection features auto-ethnographical essays by nine Inuit women educators who were part of the inaugural cohort of the University of Prince Edward Island's Nunavut Master of Education program, which offered Nunavut's first graduate-level degree for Inuit educators. These essays provide important first-hand perspectives on Inuit education, reflecting upon the dramatic changes that have taken place in the Eastern Arctic over the past 50 years. The chapters offer insight into both the effects of colonialism and the efforts to build a new educational system grounded in Inuit culture, values, and traditions. Inuit voices have yet to be heard within education scholarship in Canada, making this volume a significant contribution to the literature. This anthology will also be of interest to students of Indigenous and Arctic studies, sociology, and anthropology.

Fiona Walton is an Associate Professor in the Faculty of Education at the University of Prince Edward Island. She was previously a special education consultant and the director of early childhood and school services in the Northwest Territories/Nunavut. Darlene O'Leary earned her PhD in Theology from Saint Paul University and is currently a researcher at the University of Prince Edward Island.

Princess Pocahontas and the Blue Spots

MONIQUE MOJICA

Rich in satire, Monique Mojica's critique of the misrepresentation of Indigenous women in American myth, literature, and documentary confronts a long-standing history of sexual violence and condemns colonial traditions that represent Indigenous women as little more than creators and healers. Since it was first published in 1991, Princess Pocahontas and the Blue Spots has become a classic in Canadian theatre and is still widely studied at universities and colleges around the world.

The remarkable CBC radio play Birdwoman and the Suffragettes: A Story of Sacajawea is also included.

Monique Mojica is a Kuna-Rappahannock half-breed, a woman word-warrior, a mother, an actor, and a playwright. She is a founding member and former Artistic Director of Native Earth Performing Arts.

Praise for the fourth edition:

“This is the best and most readable text on Canadian society. It takes a fresh look at current issues including the pandemic and the climate emergency and delves into the tensions and dynamics that shaped Canada.”

—GORDON LAXER, PROFESSOR EMERITUS OF POLITICAL ECONOMY, UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA, AND AUTHOR OF AFTER THE SANDS: ENERGY AND ECOLOGICAL SECURITY FOR CANADIANS

Canadian Society in the Twenty-First Century An Historical Sociological Approach, Fourth Edition

TREVOR W. HARRISON AND JOHN W. FRIESEN

Now in its fourth edition, Canadian Society in the Twenty-First Century examines Canada's development and current circumstances in a socio-historical framework. This foundational text encourages students to consider some of the tough questions Canadian citizens are likely to face in adjusting to the demands and challenges of life in the twenty-first century.

Divided into three sections, the text investigates economic, political, cultural, and ideological perspectives through three main relationships: Canada and Québec, Canada and the United States, and Canada and Indigenous peoples. Each of these sections deals with large issues impacting all societies in the early twenty-first century: nationalism, neo-liberalism, and cultural values of social solidarity that persist despite modernity. The final chapter revisits the importance of socio-historical methods, the roles of state and markets, and sociological theory in a wider context, ending with a look at the sociological implications of the global pandemic.

Exploring the unique character of modern Canadian society, this is a vibrant introductory resource for sociology courses on Canadian society as well as undergraduate courses in Canadian studies and Canadian history across North America.

Trevor W. Harrison is a Professor of Sociology at the University of Lethbridge and Director of the Parkland Institute. John W. Friesen is a Professor Emeritus at the Werklund School of Education, University of Calgary.

FEATURES

- updated statistics and data that reflect current scholarship in the field and new discussions on issues such as the current crisis of neo-liberal globalization, Canada's petroleum industry, global warming, the Wet'suwet'en dispute in 2020, and the COVID-19 pandemic
- includes annotated lists of recommended readings, videos, and websites; critical thinking questions; and a newly added glossary
- integrates sociological concepts in an accessible and engaging way to help students understand the foundations of contemporary Canadian society

The Scientific Method in Forensic Science A Canadian Handbook

MIKE ILLES AND PAUL WILSON

Written for the Canadian forensic science student and the professional practitioner, this timely and practical handbook provides an experience-based learning tool. This text offers an understanding of the scientific method and evidence-based analysis and how they relate to forensic science and its casework—from the crime scene to the courtroom—within the Canadian context. The authors explore the paradigm shift in forensic science, highlight basic skills like scientific reasoning and literature review, and untangle the complexities of ethics and bias, research design, critical thinking, and best practices for communication in various settings. Case examples and court testimonies are reviewed to underscore the importance of these concepts.

Dr. Mike Illes is a Professor in the Trent University Forensic Science Undergraduate and Graduate Programs. Dr. Paul Wilson served as the Canada Research Chair in DNA Profiling, Forensics and Functional Genomics for 10 years and is currently a Professor in the Biology Department at Trent University.

Developing Public Policy A Practical Guide, Second Edition

BOBBY SIU

Now in its second edition, Developing Public Policy explores the factors and dimensions involved in recognizing and resolving public problems. By presenting six principles for developing good public policy, Bobby Siu identifies various approaches that are used to determine issues, conduct research, formulate policy options and recommendations, and derive intelligent decisions. Featuring thorough updates in response to changes in policy, this edition reflects newly developed policy areas and topics, including a new chapter on post-policy considerations and more than double the amount of exercises for students to practice policy writing and consultations. This text is well suited for college and university programs in public policy, public administration, political science, health policy, and human rights and equity.

Dr. Bobby Siu is a former Adjunct Professor of Public Policy, Administration, and Law at York University. He has over 16 years of public policy development, program implementation, and public administration experience in the government sector.

Research Methods

Exploring the Social World in Canadian Contexts, Second Edition

DIANE SYMBALUK

Now in its second edition, Research Methods offers students a highly accessible and engaging introduction to research methodology from a uniquely Canadian perspective. This text examines both qualitative and quantitative research methods from the early planning stages to writing proposals and reports, including common errors in reasoning and research, alongside inquiry paradigms, theoretical frameworks, and relevant literature reviews. New to this edition are sections on Indigenous knowledges and the need for decolonizing methods, emerging practices and technologies, expanded information on theory and data analysis, and updated figures, statistics, and current online resources.

Diane Symbaluk is a Professor of Sociology at MacEwan University who teaches criminology, social psychology, and research methods. She helped establish the research ethics policy, ethics board, and ethics appeal structure that continue to guide research at MacEwan University.

Research as Resistance

Revisiting Critical, Indigenous, and Anti-Oppressive Approaches, Second Edition

EDITED BY SUSAN STREGA AND LESLIE BROWN

This second edition of Research as Resistance builds upon the resistance-based methods featured in the first edition and contributes to the recent resurgence of marginalized knowledges in social science research, drawing from Indigenous, feminist, and critical race scholarship. Bringing together the theory and practice of anti-oppressive research, this substantially revised and updated edition features new chapters that address narrative research, Foucauldian methods, community action research, queer theory, and insurgent Indigenous research. With a unique emphasis on both the theoretical foundations and practical applications of socially just research, this collection is an invaluable resource for senior undergraduate and graduate courses on anti-oppressive practice and research theory and methods in the social sciences.

Dr. Susan Strega is a Professor in the School of Social Work at the University of Victoria. Dr. Leslie Brown is a Professor in the School of Social Work and the Director of the Institute for Studies and Innovation in Community-University Engagement at the University of Victoria.

Work and Labour in Canada

Critical Issues, Third Edition

ANDREW JACKSON AND MARK P. THOMAS

The demographic composition of the labour market is transforming, yet this change is conditioned by long-standing patterns of inequality in terms of gender, race, disability, and immigration status. The third edition of Work and Labour in Canada maps out major trends and patterns that define working life and identifies the economic, social, and political factors that shape the contemporary workplace. While evaluating working conditions and job quality from a critical perspective, the authors point toward possibilities for a more equitable and democratic future of work. Thoroughly updated and featuring recommended readings, internet resources, and a new chapter on disability and work, this revised edition is an essential textbook for teachers, researchers, labour activists, and students of labour studies and sociology of work.

Andrew Jackson is a Senior Policy Advisor at the Broadbent Institute and an Adjunct Research Professor in the Institute of Political Economy at Carleton University. Mark P. Thomas is an Associate Professor of Sociology and Director of the Global Labour Research Centre at York University.

Immigration, Public Policy, and Health Newcomer Experiences in Developed Nations

EDITED BY DENNIS RAPHAEL

A critical assessment of how public policy affects the health of immigrants, this interdisciplinary volume is an integral contribution to the study of immigration in modern developed nations. The contributors employ a welfare state analysis to examine the political and economic systems that shape public policy, turning to several Canadian and international case studies that demonstrate how these policies specifically impact immigrant experiences and health outcomes.

Exploring ideals of multiculturalism, solidarity, and equity, Dennis Raphael's edited collection is an excellent resource for students interested in comparative health care systems, health economics, and global immigrant experiences.

Dennis Raphael is a Professor of Health Policy and Management at York University, whose areas of interest include topics in public policy, poverty, and social determinants of health.

Responding to the Oppression of Addiction Canadian Social Work Perspectives, Fourth Edition

EDITED BY RICK CSIERNIK, WILLIAM S. ROWE,
 AND GABRIELA NOVOTNA

Responding to the Oppression of Addiction brings together the voices of over 40 academics and social work practitioners from across Canada to provide a diverse and multidimensional perspective to the study of addiction. This thoroughly updated edition features eight new chapters and streamlines the content of the previous editions, with chapters condensed and combined to create a more accessible text.

The fourth edition features new content on themes such as residential schools, prevention initiatives, special needs of different populations, policy perspectives framed within an anti-oppression standpoint, cognitive behavioural therapy, and the emerging topic of problem gambling. Returning chapters have been updated, with contributors providing more in-depth examinations of trauma-informed approaches. The entire volume has a strengthened anti-oppressive framework, on both an overarching and by-chapter level. This celebrated and varied collection is an indispensable resource for upper-level students, graduate students, and practitioners working in the fields of social work, addictions studies, and the helping professions.

Rick Csiernik is a Professor of Social Work at King's College, Western University. He has authored and edited over a dozen books, including Substance Use and Misuse, The Essential Guide to Psychoactive Drugs in Canada, and The Drug Paradox. William S. Rowe is a Professor of Social Work at the University of South Florida and holds cross-appointments at the Moffitt Cancer Center, the College of Public Health, and the AIDS Training and Education Center, also at the University of South Florida. Gabriela Novotna is an Associate Professor and Associate Dean of the Research and Graduate Program in the Faculty of Social Work at the University of Regina. She is a Researcher with Saskatchewan Population Health and Evaluation Research Unit (SPHERU).

FEATURES

- thoroughly updated chapter-by-chapter content grounded in an anti-oppressive framework with deeper exploration of trauma-informed approaches
- joined by updated instructor supplements including lecture suggestions and a glossary for each chapter
- provides an authoritative analysis of the practices and policies that contribute to the construction of the meaning of addiction through a Canadian lens

Changing Communities

A Guide for Social and Community Activists, Second Edition

PATRICIA SPINDEL

Experienced community organizer and professor Patricia Spindel provides a practical guide for producing change through community action and social activism in the updated second edition of Changing Communities. Spindel explores who has power in society and how communities can mobilize to create positive change by building capacity, developing community structures, and taking direct action to shift power relations.

Outlining a practical approach to asset mapping, creating community economic development strategies, and critiquing some current approaches to community development, the chapters cover topics including the impact of corruption and the influence of powerful interests, community strengths and needs assessment, community-based research, various community development strategies, and the principles and some of the tactics used in community organization. Equipped with case studies and practical examples, this fundamental guide is an essential resource for students in community development, social service work, gerontology, and other human services and helping professions.

Dr. Patricia Spindel has worked with youth and engaged in systemic advocacy for people with developmental disabilities and their families and older adults for over 40 years. She taught at both the University of Guelph-Humber and the Humber College Institute of Technology and Advanced Learning, where she also coordinated the Social Services Worker Program and was an Associate Dean of Health Sciences. Dr. Spindel is also the author of Working with Families and Case Management from an Empowerment Perspective.

FEATURES

- includes a community strengths-based assessment framework developed by the author, referred to as the Strengths, Assets, Challenges, and Opportunities Assessment (SACO)
- offers case studies and practical examples from Canada and the United States
- provides students with practical knowledge on how to build powerful coalitions, raise funds for grassroots projects, and deal with the press and social media, including how to write a press release

Protecting Children Theoretical and Practical Aspects

EDITED BY KATHLEEN KUFELDT, BARBARA FALLON, AND BRAD MCKENZIE

Focusing on children who are subject to welfare intervention, Protecting Children addresses the challenges and issues of the child welfare system and provides foundational knowledge on the theoretical and practical aspects of the field. This edited collection begins with a review of key concepts, including child development, attachment, and resilience theories; social policies; family law; and ethics. Highlighting the translation of theory into practice, the contributors discuss current services and the search for best practice internationally as well as exploring Indigenous child welfare and offering conclusions and recommendations to promote positive outcomes for children and families involved in the system.

Scholars, researchers, and practitioners from across the globe provide insight on a wide range of timely issues, such as the risk of reductionism, limits to predictability, pragmatic issues, and the disproportional presence in the care system of minority groups, including Indigenous children, children of new immigrants and refugees, children in LGBTQ communities, and children of the poor. This foundational volume is an important resource for courses in social work and child welfare.

Kathleen Kufeldt is an Adjunct Professor in the Faculty of Social Work at the University of Calgary. Her academic positions have included Assistant Dean in the University of Calgary's Faculty of Social Work and Chair in Child Protection at Memorial University of Newfoundland. Barbara Fallon is a Professor in the Factor-Inwentash Faculty of Social Work, University of Toronto. She holds a Canada Research Chair in Child Welfare and was formerly the Associate Dean of Research. Brad McKenzie is a Professor Emeritus in the Faculty of Social Work, University of Manitoba.

FEATURES

- includes contributions from researchers, practitioners, and scholars from Australia, Canada, New Zealand, the United Kingdom, and the United States
- highlights Indigenous authors and personal stories of service users and includes figures and tables throughout the text as well as section introductions and conclusions to situate main theories and concepts for students

Substance Use and Misuse

Everything Matters, Third Edition

RICK CSIERNIK

The revised third edition of the formerly titled Substance Use and Abuse retains its comprehensive, holistic examination of the field of substance use and misuse from a Canadian perspective. Now organized into seven sections, the 30 chapters examine the nature of addiction; explore biological, psychological, and social theories that attempt to explain addiction; discuss drugs that produce addiction, along with a review of prevention, treatment, and treatment system options; and consider the legal and ethical issues that those working in substance use and addiction frequently encounter.

Thoroughly updated to reflect contemporary issues and recent advances in the field of addiction counselling, Rick Csiernik’s much-loved text features new content on the changes to cannabis law and culture in Canada and the opioid crisis and public response, and expanded content on cultural competence, non-substance-use addictive behaviours, motivational interviewing, and relapse prevention.

Substance Use and Misuse is an essential and timely resource for counsellors treating individuals dealing with addiction and for courses across social work, human services counselling, psychology, and mental health and addictions programs.

Rick Csiernik is a Professor in the School of Social Work at King’s University College, Western University. He has authored and edited over a dozen books, including The Essential Guide to Psychoactive Drugs in Canada, The Drug Paradox, and Responding to the Oppression of Addiction.

FEATURES

- now divided into seven sections with 30 chapters to enhance student comprehension and learning
- contains new information on contemporary themes, including the opioid crisis, e-cigarettes and vaping, risks and benefits of THC and CBD, principles of good family skills training, sample dialectical behavioural therapy (DBT) activities, and a sample intervention script
- includes an enhanced treatment section with updates on harm reduction, trauma-informed care, the transtheoretical model of change, and motivational interviewing

Poverty, Mental Health, and Social Inclusion

EDITED BY CHERYL FORCHUK AND RICK CSIERNIK

Poverty, Mental Health, and Social Inclusion offers a comprehensive selection of chapters written by academic researchers as well as direct practitioners and mental health consumer survivors to examine the intersection of poverty, mental health, and social exclusion. With the aim of addressing complex issues, from homelessness and housing to stigma and mental health, this volume presents the perspectives of a wide range of those affected by poverty and social exclusion, including Canadian veterans, Indigenous women, homeless youth and families, and mental health consumer survivors. Divided into four sections, the chapters explore the effects of social exclusion, examine the trajectory of how it occurs, analyze harmful policies in place that exacerbate the correlation between poverty and mental health issues, and introduce potential solutions to expand social inclusion to marginalized groups.

Accessibly written, this text will be a valuable resource for courses on mental health, poverty, and social policy across the disciplines of social work, sociology, and health studies at both the graduate and undergraduate level.

Cheryl Forchuk is a Distinguished University Professor in the Arthur Labatt Family School of Nursing at Western University; a Scientist and Assistant Director at the Lawson Health Research Institute; and the Beryl and Richard Ivey Research Chair in Aging, Mental Health, Rehabilitation, and Recovery at the Parkwood Research Institute in London, Ontario. He has authored and edited over a dozen books, including The Essential Guide to Psychoactive Drugs in Canada, The Drug Paradox, and Responding to the Oppression of Addiction.

FEATURES

- includes research that represents the lived experiences of those living in poverty and homelessness, organized in a narrative framework
- covers a wide range of issues related to social inclusion, exclusion, and mental health
- provides a critical overview of current housing, income support, and mental health policies and their effectiveness

Case Management from an Empowerment Perspective

A Guide for Health and Human Services Professionals, Fourth Edition

PATRICIA SPINDEL

Written for case managers planning to work in health and human services, this practical guide addresses the need for more progressive and compassionate ways of working with others. Introducing innovative strategies for working with people that challenge the status quo, the book reconsiders old forms of social casework in favour of empowerment approaches that incorporate individual and systemic advocacy. Patricia Spindel covers the history of case management; traditional approaches and their critiques; barriers to an empowerment approach; the ethical issues of labelling, stereotyping, stigmatization, and pathologizing; and key empowerment philosophies and the research that supports them.

Dr. Patricia Spindel has worked with youth and engaged in systemic advocacy for people with developmental disabilities and their families and older adults for over 40 years. She taught at both the University of Guelph-Humber and the Humber College Institute of Technology and Advanced Learning, where she also coordinated the Social Services Worker Program and was an Associate Dean of Health Sciences.

Working with Families

A Guide for Health and Human Services Professionals, Second Edition

PATRICIA SPINDEL

In its second edition, this accessible health and human services manual offers a critical overview of the issues and challenges that families face and provides practical strategies for promoting resilience and positive family functioning. Through clinical and sociological perspectives and employing a strengths-based approach, this revised edition provides a broad overview of factors affecting Canadian families. Covering a wide range of topics, the author draws special attention to LGBTQ and military families, the effects of violence and trauma, and professional ethics and self-care. An indispensable resource for students and practitioners of social services, child and youth work, and early childhood education, the revised edition of Working with Families reflects current research and practices in the field and features updated statistics and accessible language.

Critical Clinical Social Work

Counterstorying for Social Justice

EDITED BY CATRINA BROWN AND JUDY E. MACDONALD

Exploring the impact of oppression and power in constraining and limiting people's voices, Critical Clinical Social Work moves social work forward by highlighting the practical application of feminist, narrative, anti-racist, and postcolonial frameworks. The contributors tackle a range of substantive issues including ethics, working with complex trauma, men's use of violence, substance use among women and girls, Indigenous social work praxis, critical child welfare approaches, counterstorying experiences of (dis)Ability, and animal-informed social work practice. Written by Canadian social work educators and filled with illustrative case studies, this text offers a Canadian perspective on the diverse issues social workers encounter in the field. This edited collection is an indispensable resource for social work practice and theory courses and a must-read for professional practitioners.

Catrina Brown is an Associate Professor and Graduate Coordinator in the School of Social Work at Dalhousie University, with cross-appointments in Gender and Women's Studies and Nursing. Judy E. MacDonald is the Director of the School of Social Work and Assistant Dean of Equity and Inclusion in the Faculty of Health at Dalhousie University.

Spirituality and Social Justice

Spirit in the Political Quest for a Just World

EDITED BY NORMA JEAN PROFITT AND CYNDY BASKIN

Filling the gap in literature on spirituality and social work, this textbook is uniquely dedicated to connecting faith and social justice in various social work contexts. Three sections contextualize belief in areas of environmentalism, ethics, politics, and social work education. Throughout the book, students gain insight into pertinent topics like decolonization, artistic practice, mindfulness, feminism, political activism, and eco-justice from a variety of spiritual perspectives, including Islamic, Quechuan, Wiccan, Christian, and Indigenous. Spirituality and Social Justice will benefit students in social work, sociology, community nursing, counselling, and education who study the relationship between spirituality, social justice, and social work.

Norma Jean Profitt is a social activist and a former Associate Professor in the School of Social Work at St. Thomas University. She was a recipient of the Governor General's Award in Commemoration of the Persons Case in 2016. Cyndy Baskin is an Associate Professor in the School of Social Work at Toronto Metropolitan University.

Reimagining Anti-Oppression Social Work Research

EDITED BY HENRY PARADA AND SAMANTHA WEHBI

Reimagining Anti-Oppression Social Work Research explores the challenges, tensions, and possibilities of engaging with anti-oppression epistemology in social work research. Through in-depth discussion of methodologies such as phenomenology, surveys, decolonizing research principles, autoethnography, and critical arts-informed research, the authors provide insights about the application of these approaches to studies with marginalized populations and on a variety of social issues. The authors explore the complexities of research on topics such as whiteness, racism, disability, and trans experiences, as well as working within feminist contexts and institutional social service settings. An ideal resource for social work students and scholars, this insightful and highly accessible volume highlights the value of anti-oppressive research for social change.

Henry Parada is an Associate Professor in the School of Social Work at Toronto Metropolitan University. Samantha Wehbi is a Professor in the School of Social Work and Associate Dean of Student Affairs at the Yeates School of Graduate Studies, Toronto Metropolitan University.

Reimagining Anti-Oppression Social Work Practice

EDITED BY SAMANTHA WEHBI AND HENRY PARADA

Written by practitioners, educators, and students who have long engaged with anti-oppression and social justice frameworks, the chapters in Reimagining Anti-Oppression Social Work Practice offer in-depth insights into how anti-oppression principles can enhance social work practice. Through supportive critiques and an exploration of the complexities of practice with and by marginalized populations, the authors seek to push the scope and boundaries of anti-oppression practice. They offer concrete examples on a diversity of issues, including developing Indigenous practice principles, addressing anti-Black sanism, challenging normative constructions of grief, supporting queer resistance, and advancing critical practices with children and youth. A well-timed contribution to the field, this thought-provoking and engaging edited collection will be an indispensable resource for social work students, scholars, and practitioners.

Samantha Wehbi is a Professor in the School of Social Work and Associate Dean of Student Affairs at the Yeates School of Graduate Studies, Toronto Metropolitan University. Henry Parada is an Associate Professor in the School of Social Work at Toronto Metropolitan University.

The Essential Guide to Psychoactive Drugs in Canada

A Resource for Counselling Professionals, Second Edition

RICK CSIERNIK

The second edition of the formerly titled Just Say Know: A Counsellor's Guide to Psychoactive Drugs is an indispensable counselling resource that provides a practical understanding of psychoactive drug pharmacology and physiology. This new edition features a wide range of updated research and content addressing the rise in the use of opioids, fentanyl, cannabis, novel psychoactive substances, and antipsychotic medication, as well as the impacts of drug use on sleep and mental health. This guide is the perfect addition to any addiction or mental health-related course and is crucial for counsellors, therapists, instructors, and students looking to acquire an in-depth, practical understanding of drug use, medication, and addiction in disciplines such as social work, sociology, pharmacology, health studies, nursing, psychology, and addiction studies.

Rick Csiernik is a Professor in the School of Social Work at King's University College, Western University. He has authored and edited over a dozen books, including Substance Use and Misuse, The Drug Paradox, and Responding to the Oppression of Addiction.

Family Matters

An Introduction to Family Sociology in Canada, Fourth Edition

BARBARA A. MITCHELL

Now in its fourth edition, Family Matters offers an enriched discussion on a variety of substantive issues experienced by diverse Canadians across the life course. Adopting a feminist sociological approach throughout, this popular textbook explores family dynamics through a critical life course theoretical lens. This over-arching perspective is used to examine how social, economic, and historical processes related to gender roles, age and generational location, ethnicity and race, geographical location, and social change shape contemporary family life.

As a leading name in sociology, Barbara Mitchell has thoroughly updated the previous edition to reflect timely current events, recent census data, and cutting-edge research. Providing more detailed and nuanced discussions of many areas, including life course and other styles of critical theorizing on families, this new edition examines the history of slavery and Black family life in Canada, Indigenous families, foreign/temporary workers, intersectional and racialized processes influencing families, youth activism, transgender children, technology and social media, and the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on aging families.

Approachable, concise, and filled with discussion questions, activities, and resources for further reading, Family Matters is the perfect resource for students enrolled in introductory or advanced-level courses in family sociology and gender studies.

Barbara A. Mitchell is a Professor in the Department of Sociology/Anthropology, jointly appointed with the Department of Gerontology, at Simon Fraser University.

FEATURES

- up-to-date material featuring current events, recent research studies, and statistics, including census and other national data sets
- new and expanded content on a wide range of timely topics, such as Indigenous and racialized family life, transgender children, technology and social media, and the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic
- includes updated instructor supplement package equipped with PowerPoint slides, video resource suggestions, and a test bank

Body Studies in Canada

Critical Approaches to Embodied Experiences

EDITED BY VALERIE ZAWILSKI

How do we perceive ourselves and our bodies in relation to our physical, geographical, social, cultural, political, psychological, and spiritual environments? Body Studies in Canada uses intersectional methodological and theoretical frameworks to discuss the political and socio-historical discourses that shape body studies in Canadian society.

This edited volume delves into a variety of timely topics including post-colonial “othering” of the body; social discourses around healthy and unhealthy bodies; intersections of aging, gender, race, class, and size; the fitness industry’s promotion of the “ideal” body; the gendering of bodywork symbols and expressions in carceral environments; and self-awareness of “the body” in social and digital media.

In 13 chapters, editor Valerie Zawilski brings together scholars from a wide variety of disciplines and expertise to provide an interdisciplinary perspective on how the body interacts reflexively with society. This collection is a foundational text for sociology of the body and body studies courses as well as gender studies, political science, and health studies.

Valerie Zawilski is an Associate Professor of Sociology and Criminology at King’s University College at Western University. Her research interests include social movements, human rights, health and illness, and human trafficking.

FEATURES

- provides a uniquely Canadian perspective on body studies and the surrounding historical and political issues, with a focus on decolonization, racialization, masculinities, engagement with critical weight scholarship, and immigration
- pedagogical features include section introductions, boxed inserts highlighting key concepts, learning objectives, questions for critical thinking, and a glossary

Race and Racialization

Essential Readings, Second Edition

EDITED BY TANIA DAS GUPTA, CARL E. JAMES, CHRIS ANDERSEN,
 GRACE-EDWARD GALABUZI, AND ROGER C. A. MAAKA

Few words have generated as much debate and controversy as the word race. Through a critical examination of this complex subject, this anthology brings together essential contributions to the study of race and racialization. An excellent compilation of classic and contemporary works by academic and activist writers, Race and Racialization provides historical, comparative, and global perspectives on race and its intersection with gender, class, ethnicity, Indigeneity, and sexuality. This well-updated second edition includes a new section on state multiculturalism and a diverse ensemble of Canadian and international contributors who explore such relevant themes as colonialism, institutional racism, ethnocentrism, privilege, marginalization, and resistance.

Featuring annotated lists of supplementary readings to encourage further exploration and contributions by activists from Idle No More and Black Lives Matter, this comprehensive and highly accessible anthology is perfect for students studying race, racism, cultural diversity, identity and belonging, social inequality, and social justice.

Classical Sociological Theory

IRVING M. ZEITLIN

Authored by the world-renowned sociologist Dr. Irving Zeitlin, Classical Sociological Theory is an abridged version of the popular textbook Ideology and the Development of Sociological Theory. Known for its comprehensive descriptions of classical theorists and concepts from the Enlightenment to the 20th century, this new abridged edition features an updated introduction, extensive index, and 14 succinct chapters.

Dr. Zeitlin provides detailed explanations of essential philosophies, develops ideologies and theories within a historical context, and introduces readers to the classical critical thinkers, such as Émile Durkheim, Karl Mannheim, Karl Marx, George Herbert Mead, Max Weber, and Mary Wollstonecraft. This is an ideal resource for undergraduate students of sociology, philosophy, social theory, and social psychology.

Dr. Irving M. Zeitlin is a Professor Emeritus at the University of Toronto and holds a PhD from Princeton University in the fields of Sociology and Anthropology, having specialized in the history of social and political thought. He has published over a dozen books on social theory and religion.

The Drug Paradox

An Introduction to the Sociology of Psychoactive Substances in Canada

TARA L. BRUNO AND RICK CSIERNIK

The Drug Paradox examines both the empirically founded and the socially constructed facets of drugs and drug use, highlighting the incongruous aspects of laws, policies, and programming that aim to address behaviours around drugs. Using a policy-oriented approach while also emphasizing the utility of a multifaceted bio-psycho-social model, this text provides students with a foundation in the sociology of psychoactive substances in the Canadian context. It covers models of addiction, the history of Canada's drug laws, media representation, and international perspectives on drug policy and addresses the competing discourses on drugs in society. This timely textbook is ideal for use in sociology courses on drugs or drug use and will also appeal to those focusing on drug use from a criminology, public health, cannabis studies, or policy perspective.

Rethinking Society in the 21st Century

Critical Readings in Sociology, Fourth Edition

EDITED BY MICHELLE WEBBER AND KATE BEZANSON

Rethinking Society in the 21st Century is a critical collection of readings that provides students with a foundational knowledge base in sociology. Thoroughly updated to include significant Canadian content and with a greater focus on Indigeneity, gender, and sexuality, this anthology introduces students to the fundamental elements of sociology with a balance of classical theory and more contemporary approaches found in the works of Michel Foucault and Dorothy Smith. Building on this theoretical grounding, the text outlines core concepts in sociology as well as major social institutions such as families, the economy and labour, education, health care, and media. Covering a wide breadth of topics, including chapters on animals, the environment, crime, trans issues, class, ethnicity, and race, this new edition explores critical debates in Canadian society with an emphasis on intersectional approaches to social inequalities. Uniquely designed for introductory courses, this reader is ideal for students in sociology programs across Canada.

Michelle Webber is an Associate Professor in the Department of Sociology at Brock University. Kate Bezanson is an Associate Professor and Chair of the Department of Sociology at Brock University.

Sociology of Home

Belonging, Community, and Place in the Canadian Context

EDITED BY GILLIAN ANDERSON, JOSEPH G. MOORE,
 AND LAURA SUSKI

Sociology of Home draws on sociological approaches to family, urban and rural communities, and migration and immigration to discuss the idea of “home”—an intensely personal concept that is, in its varying iterations, bound to larger economic and political systems.

Moving from private homemaking to community building to political ecology, the authors investigate home as a constructed space within the context of a diverse set of cultural, political, built, and natural landscapes that ground Canadian experiences. This comprehensive introductory reader explores a diversity of homes and homemaking and is an important contribution to the sociological studies of home, family, environment, gender, and social inequality.

Gillian Anderson is a Professor of Sociology at Vancouver Island University. Joseph G. Moore is a Professor of Anthropology and Sociology at Douglas College. Laura Suski is a Professor of Sociology, Liberal Studies, and Global Studies at Vancouver Island University.
